ITALIAN LEAGUE DELEGATES QUIT GENEVA

Alice Longworth Says

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12.—The report of the National Civil Service League gives us a line on our fixed charges for office holders. Over four billion dollars is the estimate of what goes out yearly to some three million government employees. A large proportion are on the federal payroll that has been swelled to bursting during the past three years by the all-embracing activities of the New Deal.

Every morning before a wage earner gets out of bed he can count off out of what he makes his share of the taxes necessary to pay these government jobholders. Even though the tax collector doesn't come around in person, the tax is paid just the same; in increased price of food and clothing, and in higher house rent.

From time to time the president tries to create the impression of economy. But if he cuts down on the payrollers they might vote against him. We might as well remember that it is election year, and stagger on under the burden as best we may.

GENEVA, May 12.—The League of Nations was shaken to its foundations today as the entire Italian delegation, headed by Baron Pompeo Aloisi, packed their bags to return to Rome in obedience to Premier Mussolini's suddenly telegraphed order to quit the league council in the midst of its session.

This sudden departure left the league in complete confusion, as the Italians insisted they could not interpret Mussolini's order, but only obey it.

Nobody knows whether the Italians mean to quit the league altogether or merely to absent themselves for this council meeting.

"I do not know any more than you do what the meaning of the order is," Baron Aloisi told International News Service. "I can place no interpretation upon it. Any comment will have to come from Rome."

It is, however, supposed that Mussolini's indignation has been aroused by the league council's refusal to expel the Abyssinian representative, Wolde Mariam.

May Be League's End.

His recall of the Italian delegates should not have any practical significance for today's session, as Baron Aloisi had already declared he would not attend any meeting

G-Men Clean Up Desperado List

(International News Service)

Four notorious public enemies in 11 days!

That was the sensational score of the G-men today after the arrest of Thomas H. Robinson, kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, in Glendale, Calif.

Here's the G-men's score card for the month of May:

May 1—Alvin Karpis, public enemy No. 1 of the nation, arrested in New Orleans. Arrest personally directed by J. Edgar Hoover. Karpis taken to St. Paul, charged with $200,000 Bremer and $100,000 Hamm kidnapings as well as murder, robbery and other crimes.

May 7—Harry Campbell, Karpis' chief lieutenant, captured in Toledo.

May 7—William Mahan, kidnaper of George Weyerhaeuser, caught in San Francisco. Mahan confessed and already has started 60-year term at McNeil Island federal prison.

May 11—Robinson arrested.

The whirlwind of activity of G-men this month has accounted for the last fugitive kidnapers and major public enemies. It climaxes two brilliant years of work by Hoover's men which included the elimination of John Dillinger, Pretty Boy Floyd, Doc Barker, Fred Barker, Ma. Barker, Homer Van Meter, Baby Face Nelson, the Touhy gang and many lesser lights of the underworld.

GENEVA, May 12.—Staggered by the departure of the entire Italian delegation from Geneva under sudden orders from Mussolini, the League of Nations council retaliated today by indefinitely prolonging sanctions.

Ignoring a move by Chile to abandon sanctions, the council adopted a sharp resolution referring to the "serious new step" taken by Italy and adjourned until June 15.

Almost at the moment the council was handing its new rebuff to Italy, Baron Pompeo Aloisi and other members of the Italian delegation were on the Rome express, with the personal conviction that Italy is leaving the League for good.

Expect Legislative Action On Emergency Relief At Day's Session

SENATE PROPOSES FUND FOR MAY ONLY

By ARTHUR H. WAKELEE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, May 12.—An expected compromise on emergency relief funds—rejecting the administration estimate of $11,000,000 for May and June and proposing instead $3,630,000 for May only—was to come up before the special session of the legislature today.

The Republican-controlled senate climaxed the opening sessions of the second week's emergency meeting by refusing to go along with the administration's program to meet immediate needs for unemployment relief funds. While the house was advancing revenue measures of the administration's $80,000,000 tax schedule, the senate received an amended resolution from its appropriation committee providing only for relief funds to meet needs of the current month.

To Be Considered Today

The amended resolution was held over until today, when it will be considered in both houses. It calls for a transfer from the motor license fund of $3,630,000—the sum

Actress Wife Enters Brand New Complaint In Divorce Tangle

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—A brand new complaint on file here today in the old marital strife between Rudy Vallee, crooner and his actress wife, Fay Webb Vallee.

After dropping her appeal to a suit on a property settlement, the singer's wife today had asked the court here to grant her a divorce. Her first complaint was for separate maintenance, but this never went to trial owing to the extended litigation over the wife's attempts to get her $100 weekly stipend raised.

In her new complaint, Mrs. Vallee charges her husband forced her to accompany him on long trips, to keep late hours, and to entertain his friends, all of which was too great a strain for her.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 12.—Under guard of seven heavily-armed G-Men, Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., alleged kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, arrived here at 11:08 a. m. today in a specially chartered plane from California, where he was captured last night.

GLENDALE, Cal., May 12.—Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., the bad man who masqueraded as a woman, was on his way back to Louisville, Ky., today to answer for the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

The desperado was meek as a lamb when the famed G-men closed in on him here last night. He was armed with a .38-calibre pistol, but showed no fight. Quite the contrary, all he showed was fright.

"All right," said one of the department of justice investigators as they crashed into the apartment in Glendale, quiet suburb of Los Angeles, where Robinson had been living for two months under the name of John Simons.

Expect Legislative Action On Emergency Relief At Day's Session

SENATE PROPOSES FUND FOR MAY ONLY

By ARTHUR H. WAKELEE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, May 12.—An expected compromise on emergency relief funds—rejecting the administration estimate of $11,000,000 for May and June and proposing instead $3,630,000 for May only—was to come up before the special session of the legislature today.

The Republican-controlled senate climaxed the opening sessions of the second week's emergency meeting by refusing to go along with the administration's program to meet immediate needs for unemployment relief funds. While the house was advancing revenue measures of the administration's $80,000,000 tax schedule, the senate received an amended resolution from its appropriation committee providing only for relief funds to meet needs of the current month.

To Be Considered Today

The amended resolution was held over until today, when it will be considered in both houses. It calls for a transfer from the motor license fund of $3,630,000—the sum

New Complaint Against Vallee

Actress Wife Enters Brand New Complaint In Divorce Tangle

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—A brand new complaint on file here today in the old marital strife between Rudy Vallee, crooner and his actress wife, Fay Webb Vallee.

After dropping her appeal to a suit on a property settlement, the singer's wife today had asked the court here to grant her a divorce. Her first complaint was for separate maintenance, but this never went to trial owing to the extended litigation over the wife's attempts to get her $100 weekly stipend raised.

In her new complaint, Mrs. Vallee charges her husband forced her to accompany him on long trips, to keep late hours, and to entertain his friends, all of which was too great a strain for her.

The couple were married on July 5, 1931, and separated two years later, according to the complaint.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—A score of new processing taxes, estimated to bring $220,000,000 of revenue into the treasury annually, were recommended to the senate finance committee today by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Wallace testified at a surprise open session of the committee, after it previously decided to hear him in secrecy.

The secretary recommended processing taxes on wheat, rye, corn, hogs, cotton, rice, sugar, tobacco, cattle, sheep, rayon, silk and even American spirits. He particularly complained that failure to impose a processing tax on sugar would result in the unfair enrichment of sugar processors.

Held To Answer Charge In Mrs. Stoll Kidnaping—Had $4,500 On Person

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 12.—Under guard of seven heavily-armed G-Men, Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., alleged kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, arrived here at 11:08 a. m. today in a specially chartered plane from California, where he was captured last night.

GLENDALE, Cal., May 12.—Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., the bad man who masqueraded as a woman, was on his way back to Louisville, Ky., today to answer for the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

The desperado was meek as a lamb when the famed G-men closed in on him here last night. He was armed with a .38-calibre pistol, but showed no fight. Quite the contrary, all he showed was fright.

"All right," said one of the department of justice investigators as they crashed into the apartment in Glendale, quiet suburb of Los Angeles, where Robinson had been living for two months under the name of John Simons.

Robinson Goes White

A half dozen guns were on Robinson. He went white.

"Sure, all right," he said, as he put his hands up quickly.

Terror was in his voice. His raised hands shook.

He never made a move for his gun.

"Come on," said the government sleuths.

And Robinson went, murmuring, "I've been expecting this."

Within two hours of his arrest, which occurred at 7:30 o'clock last night (PST), the kidnaper, listed as public enemy No. 1 since the trap-

(International News Service)

NEW YORK May 12—Some 250 seamen were to face riot charges today as a result of a bruising clash with police last night on the piers of the Panama Pacific steamship company.

The seamen allegedly swung sticks and hurled stones and bottles in the clash with the police after a dozen of their group had been arrested for assaulting and beating a taxi driver and wrecking his car.

The outbreak brought to an abrupt end several hours of peaceful picketing of the piers in connection with a strike against the Panama Pacific Company.

Fifty pickets appeared following the arrival in port of the S. S. Virginia.

The taxicab driver, Charles McIntosh, was repeatedly attacked by the pickets when three seamen from the Virginia hailed his cab. McIntosh was pummelled about the head and face and the windows were smashed and the back seat ripped out of his cab.

LAST KIDNAP FUGITIVE NOW UNDER ARREST

ping of William Mahan last week, was on board a plane with his captors and was roaring through the skies for Louisville and the justice which has been prepared for him there, a quick and certain justice if the fate of the other abductors who have fallen before the G-men recently can be taken as any criterion.

Feminine Masquerade Fails

The trap on Robinson was sprung because of his penchant for feminine attire, the masquerade he favored, but the role which finally betrayed him into the hands of the law.

Lynn Allen, manager of a drug store in Pasadena, about six miles from Glendale, reported to federal officials that a man dressed as a woman was patronizing his lunch counter.

The G-men, knowing that Robinson was known to masquerade as a woman, were quick to take up this tip. They took a picture of Robinson over to Allen and he immediately identified it as the mysterious patron who had been munching his sandwiches in a manner not altogether becoming to a dainty lady.

A couple of G-men waited at the drug store and were rewarded. Robinson, dark-eyed and black-haired, minced in, swishing his dresses. The G-men sidled up to him and listened to him order. His voice was not the lilting soprano his attire would indicate. But the sleuths let him go back to his apartment. Then they nailed him.

The arrest was under the direction of T. E. Burgas and T. E. Billings, in charge of the Los Angeles federal investigation bureau at the present time. Other G-men who took part in the capture were operatives McKee, Licku and Merritt.

Had $4,500 In Cash

When Robinson was searched, he was found to have $4,500 in his possession. Of this, $4,200 was kidnap ransom money.

Seven department of justice men were aboard the specially chartered plane with Robinson when it took off for Louisville.

They hustled him, heavily manacled, out of the federal building in Los Angeles, where he was taken after the arrest, to the air field and into the ship with speed and dispatch. He hung his head and said nothing.

Robinson, 28-years of age, readily admitted his identity when seized.

Robinson, a "lone wolf," kidnaped Mrs. Stoll, wife of Berry V. Stoll, Louisville oil man, and niece of Frederic M. Sackett, former U. S. senator and former ambassador to Germany, while Mrs. Stoll was ill at her luxurious home in October, 1934.

Mrs. Stoll offered him a check in her home but he answered by beating her over the head with a piece of pipe. Bleeding and almost unconscious, Mrs. Stoll was forced into Robinson's car and was taken to Indianapolis where she was ransomed for $50,000.

Stops were scheduled for the plane bearing Robinson at Albuquerque, N. M.; Kansas City and thence to Louisville. The trip was expected to be completed in eleven hours. The ship left here at 9:30 p. m. (PST.)

ITALIANS LEAVE GENEVA PARLEY AT DUCE'S ORDER

to discuss the Italo-Abyssinian dispute.

If, however, his recall means that Italy is quitting the league for good, opinion in Geneva is that it means the death so often predicted for the league has finally come to it.

Without Japan, Germany and Italy, even the strongest league supporters consider it impossible to continue the Geneva institution.

Before official news of Mussolini's order reached all the Italian delegates some were unwilling to believe it. They explained: "England and France may leave the league; all the little nations may leave the league—but when they are all gone, Italy will still be in the league."

The moment they learned Mussolini's order was genuine, however, the Italian delegates, then at lunch, leaped up and left their food to pack hurriedly.

League In Dark.

As the Italians sent their luggage to the station for the 4:40 train to Rome, the league was still in the dark as to whether Mussolini intended finally to abandon Italian membership, but the impression grew that Il Duce intended to withdraw the delegation as a powerful demonstration.

Certainly he has achieved his desire to put the league on a hot spot, and now the Geneva delegates are literally blistered with anxiety.

Eden and Paul VanZeeland, Belgium's premier, pretended to be calm and met Joseph Paul Boncour, French minister, in his apartment to confer as the Locarno powers without Italy.

This was purely a routine meeting, called only to postpone again the eventual Locarno conference which some day is planned to replace the pact that Hitler destroyed.

(Copyright, 1935, by International News Service)

Rome, May 12.—Continued presence of an Ethiopian delegate at the League of Nations council table after the Italian occupation of Addis Ababa and proclamation of a Roman empire there will mean Italy's final withdrawal from Geneva.

This was the warning served on the league powers by Baron Pompeo Aloisi's refusal to attend yesterday's private session, and the order from Premier Mussolini today for his return to Rome.

While officials maintained silence regarding Baron Aloisi's recall, well-informed circles declare that Mussolini is determined to prove conclusively that Ethiopia can no longer be considered an independent nation with even the tacit consent of Italy.

"There is no reason why flight from the American coast to the coast of Europe can not be made in 24 hours some other time."

Forty-eight passengers, 11 of whom made the maiden, record-breaking voyage from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, are returning to Germany with the airship. Besides the passengers were the regular crew complement of 40, 13 stewards and three "official" students. Packed in the Zep's equivalent of a hold were 11,751 pounds of mail and 2,304 pounds of express freight.

Over 1000 Miles Out

New York, May 12.—Soaring swiftly on her course, the German dirigible Hindenburg at 1 p. m. (E. D. T.) today had covered more than 1,000 miles of her return flight to Germany.

At 1 o'clock, E. D. T., according to a wireless from the zeppelin, intercepted here by RCA, the big airliner was 60 miles south of Cape Race, Newfoundland, approximately 1,070 miles from Lakehurst, N. J., where she started the return trip.

Democratic organization leaders, meanwhile, were using all resources to bring out a tremendous vote for President Roosevelt to establish his popularity over Col. Outcome of the preferential balloting will have no effect upon the Roosevelt slate of 58 convention delegates. Colonel Breckinridge is merely seeking a popular vote and is not concerned over the question of delegates.

Today's voting, estimated to total 700,000 Democratic and 660,000 Republican, touches every state, district and county office and finds the Democrats split over the governorship with the incumbent governor, Martin L. Davey, opposed for renomination by Congressman Stephen H. Young.

COMPROMISE ON RELIEF FUND UP

required to meet May relief needs budgeted at $6,971,620. A balance of $3,341,620 had been left to start the month from the $60,000,000 appropriated during the last session.

Rejection of the administration's program for emergency needs in the senate followed the appearance, before an informal joint session of both houses, of representatives of unemployed delegations in the state who demanded the legislature appropriate $121,000,000 for relief purposes through next January.

No provision was made in the amended senate resolution for June relief needs, estimated at $7,200,000 . . . it was understood that item would be taken care of later.

Would Study Relief Needs

The resolution also provided for the establishment of two "financial agents," one representing the senate and the other the house, but not members of those bodies, to study relief costs and administration. They will be paid from relief funds and will have submitted to them detailed reports of relief expenses.

Democratic objections to the amended resolution—on the ground it was too radical a departure from the original resolution to transfer $11,000,000—were voted down on a strict party-line vote.

While the senate debated the proposal, administration revenue bills met one barrier in the house, although the measures as a whole were advanced. An amendment providing for the exclusion of strictly agricultural vehicles, such as tractors, from the proposed one-cent gasoline tax was inserted by a vote of 116 to 59. The amendment, proposed by Rep. John E. Brown, Washington county Democrat, lost some ground, however, when the bill was recommitted for a public hearing.

The gasoline tax increase bill will be subjected to a public hearing tomorrow afternoon. Similar hearings on proposed increases in license fees for heavy trucks and trailers were to be held today.

Administration bills providing for social security legislation were introduced in both houses and referred to committee to be started through the legislative mills. Three measures were offered in the house and two in the senate.

ping of William Mahan last week, was on board a plane with his captors and was roaring through the skies for Louisville and the justice which has been prepared for him there, a quick and certain justice if the fate of the other abductors who have fallen before the G-men recently can be taken as any criterion.

Feminine Masquerade Fails

The trap on Robinson was sprung because of his penchant for feminine attire, the masquerade he favored, but the role which finally betrayed him into the hands of the law.

Lynn Allen, manager of a drug store in Pasadena, about six miles from Glendale, reported to federal officials that a man dressed as a woman was patronizing his lunch counter.

The G-men, knowing that Robinson was known to masquerade as a woman, were quick to take up this tip. They took a picture of Robinson over to Allen and he immediately identified it as the mysterious patron who had been munching his sandwiches in a manner not altogether becoming to a dainty lady.

A couple of G-men waited at the drug store and were rewarded. Robinson, dark-eyed and black-haired, minced in, swishing his dresses. The G-men sidled up to him and listened to him order. His voice was not the lilting soprano his attire would indicate. But the sluths let him go back to his apartment. Then they nailed him.

The arrest was under the direction of T. E. Burgas and T. E. Billings, in charge of the Los Angeles federal investigation bureau at the present time. Other G-men who took part in the capture were operatives McKee, Licku and Merritt.

Had $4,500 In Cash

When Robinson was searched, he was found to have $4,560 in his possession. Of this, $4,200 was kidnap ransom money.

Seven department of justice men were aboard the specially chartered plane with Robinson when it took off for Louisville.

They hustled him, heavily manacled, out of the federal building in Los Angeles, where he was taken after the arrest, to the air field and into the ship with speed and dispatch. He hung his head and said nothing.

Robinson, 28-years of age, readily admitted his identity when seized.

Robinson, a "lone wolf," kidnaped Mrs. Stoll, wife of Berry V. Stoll, Louisville oil man, and niece of Frederic M. Sackett, former U. S. senator and former ambassador to Germany, while Mrs. Stoll was ill at her luxurious home in October, 1934.

Mrs. Stoll offered him a check in her home but he answered by beating her over the head with a piece of pipe. Bleeding and almost unconscious, Mrs. Stoll was forced into Robinson's car and was taken to Indianapolis where she was ransomed for $50,000.

Stops were scheduled for the plane bearing Robinson at Albuquerque, N. M.; Kansas City and thence to Louisville. The trip was expected to be completed in eleven hours. The ship left here at 9:30 p. m. (PST.)

To Seek Death Penalty

Louisville, Ky., May 12.—U. S. District Attorney Bunk Gardner announced today he would ask the death penalty for Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

ITALIANS LEAVE GENEVA PARLEY AT DUCE'S ORDER

to discuss the Italo-Abyssinian dispute.

If, however, his recall means that Italy is quitting the league for good, opinion in Geneva is that it means the death so often predicted for the league has finally come to it.

Without Japan, Germany and Italy, even the strongest league supporters consider it impossible to continue the Geneva institution.

Before official news of Mussolini's order reached all the Italian delegates some were unwilling to believe it. They explained: "England and France may leave the league; all the little nations may leave the league—but when they are all gone, Italy will still be in the league."

The moment they learned Mussolini's order was genuine, however, the Italian delegates, then at lunch, leaped up and left their food to pack hurriedly.

League In Dark.

As the Italians sent their luggage to the station for the 4:40 train to Rome, the league was still in the dark as to whether Mussolini intended finally to abandon Italian membership, but the impression grew that Il Duce intended to withdraw the delegation as a powerful demonstration.

Certainly he has achieved his desire to put the league on a hot spot, and now the Geneva delegates are literally blistered with anxiety.

Eden and Paul VanZeeland, Belgium's premier, pretended to be calm and met Joseph Paul Boncour, French minister, in his apartment to confer as the Locarno powers without Italy.

This was purely a routine meeting, called only to postpone again the eventual Locarno conference which some day is planned to replace the pact that Hitler destroyed.

(Copyright, 1936, by International News Service)

Rome, May 12.—Continued presence of an Ethiopian delegate at the League of Nations council table after the Italian occupation of Addis Ababa and proclamation of a Roman empire there will mean Italy's final withdrawal from Geneva.

This was the warning served on the league powers by Baron Pompeo Aloisi's refusal to attend yesterday's private session, and the order from Premier Mussolini today for his return to Rome.

While officials maintained silence regarding Baron Aloisi's recall, well-informed circles declare that Mussolini is determined to prove conclusively that Ethiopia can no longer be considered an independent nation with even the tacit consent of Italy.

GIANT GERMAN DIRIGIBLE NOW ON RETURN TRIP

by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in 1927, would be beaten, but Dr. Hugo Eckener is convinced that even this record may be shattered on a future flight of the Hindenburg. Just before the dirigible took off from Lakehurt, N. J., last night at 11:27 o'clock, he said:

"There is no reason why flight from the American coast to the coast of Europe can not be made in 24 hours some other time."

Forty-eight passengers, 11 of whom made the maiden, record-breaking voyage from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, are returning to Germany with the airship. Besides the passengers were the regular crew complement of 40, 13 stewards and three "official" students. Packed in the Zep's equivalent of a hold were 11,751 pounds of mail and 2,394 pounds of express freight.

Over 1000 Miles Out

New York, May 12.—Soaring swiftly on her course, the German dirigible Hindenburg at 1 p. m. (E. D. T.) today had covered more than 1,000 miles of her return flight to Germany.

At 1 o'clock, E. D. T., according to a wireless from the zeppelin, intercepted here by RCA, the big airliner was 60 miles south of Cape Race, Newfoundland, approximately 1,070 miles from Lakehurst, N. J., where she started the return trip.

A family car is a nuisance. Sometimes you must wait half a day for it to come back or else walk two or three blocks.

RECORD PRIMARY VOTE BEING CAST IN OHIO CONTEST

ning," Schorr said, "that Senator Borah is not the choice of the Ohio Republicans."

Democratic organization leaders, meanwhile, were using all resurces to bring out a tremendous vote for President Roosevelt to establish his popularity over Col. Henry Breckinridge of New York, who entered the preferential primary to "give all those opposed to the New Deal a chance to register their disapproval."

Outcome of the preferential balloting will have no effect upon the Roosevelt slate of 58 convention delegates. Colonel Breckinridge is merely seeking a popular vote and is not concerned over the question of delegates.

Today's voting, estimated to total 700,000 Democratic and 660,000 Republican, touches every state, district and county office and finds the Democrats split over the governorship with the incumbent governor, Martin L. Davey, opposed for renomination by Congressman Stephen H. Young.

Considerable interest has been aroused over the fight among district congressmen, many of whom bear the endorsement of Father Charles E. Coughlin's National Union for Social Justice, Townsend clubs and the state W. C. T. U.

COMPROMISE ON RELIEF FUND UP

required to meet May relief needs budgeted at $6,971,620. A balance of $3,341,620 had been left to start the month from the $60,000,000 appropriated during the last session.

Rejection of the administration's program for emergency needs in the senate followed the appearance, before an informal joint session of both houses, of representatives of unemployed delegations in the state who demanded the legislature appropriate $121,000,000 for relief purposes through next January.

No provision was made in the amended senate resolution for June relief needs, estimated at $7,200,000 . . . it was understood that item would be taken care of later.

Would Study Relief Needs

The resolution also provided for the establishment of two "financial agents," one representing the senate and the other the house, but not members of those bodies, to study relief costs and administration. They will be paid from relief funds and will have submitted to them detailed reports of relief expenses.

Democratic objections to the amended resolution—on the ground it was too radical a departure from the original resolution to transfer $11,000,000—were voted down on a strict party-line vote.

While the senate debated the proposal, administration revenue bills met one barrier in the house, although the measures as a whole were advanced. An amendment providing for the exclusion of strictly agricultural vehicles, such as tractors, from the proposed one-cent gasoline tax was inserted by a vote of 116 to 59. The amendment, proposed by Rep. John E. Brown, Washington county Democrat, lost some ground, however, when the bill was recommitted for a public hearing.

The gasoline tax increase bill will be subjected to a public hearing tomorrow afternoon. Similar hearings on proposed increases in license fees for heavy trucks and trailers were to be held today.

Administration bills providing for social security legislation were introduced in both houses and referred to committee to be started through the legislative mills. Three measures were offered in the house and two in the senate.

"COURAGE AND DEVOTION TO DUTY"

THE words with which the president accompanied the advancement of rank of Mr. Engert, the American minister at Addis Ababa who so valiantly defended the legation from native attacks, express felicitously the nature of his conduct in trying circumstances.

Practically undefended by any but the few persons within, the building was held for four days by Mr. Engert and his companions until relief came from the stronger British embassy. It was a brilliant chapter in our diplomatic annals. Not only Mr. Engert, but his wife, his staff and four navy radio men share the president's praise.

There is, indeed, as Admiral Schley once said, glory enough for all. The opportunity to win fame in this relatively obscure diplomatic post could hardly have been anticipated by its occupant. But when the hour came the man was there to meet it. There must be representatives of the United States all over the world who would be as quick to answer the call of duty, no matter what dangers it might involve.

LIGHTS THAT BLIND

In praiseworthy pursuit of highway safety 25,000 automobile drivers are to be tested at Rockefeller Center, New York City, for reactions to glaring headlights. The experiment is in its initial stages, but results thus far have established scientifically what has been proved so tragically at countless hospitals and morgues. That is that glaring headlights constitute a menace which "seriously affects more people than suspected it."

Dr. Harry R. De Silva of the Harvard Bureau of Street Traffic Research knows only one remedy for drivers susceptible to glare. Whenever particularly dazzling lights are encountered he counsels them to "slow down to creeping if necessary." Cars are geared to higher speeds and so are drivers, unfortunately. This necessitates stronger lights and the combination has produced indisputably tragic results.

THE PERILS OF EATING

When drowsiness overtakes you along about 11 o'clock of a May morning it is not necessarily a sign of spring fever; nor does it mean you should have resolutely resisted the plea for "just one more rubber" at the Smiths which ended at 2 a. m., yawns and another argument. If you fall asleep at conferences don't always blame the stale air and stale speeches. It may be the cream in your coffee is more soporific than the chairman, and that what you thought was spring fever is merely spinach.

The perils of eating were described by Dr. Walter Alvarez of the Mayo Clinic. He spoke before the American Gastro-Enterological Association in Atlantic City, where the perils of eating were thought to consist only of picking up the check for a chicken sandwich at a night club. Dr. Alvarez recounted his experience with a businessman who had been in the expensive hands of psychiatrists for eight or nine years. Placed on an elimination diet for the hives, the businessman was actually cured of insanity and psychiatrists. So when you awaken with that morning-after feeling, are caught napping by the boss or miss the laugh line in the customer's story, don't always condemn the barman. Blame the cook. For it probably was the planked shad.

LIES, BIG AND LITTLE

How can a little child be expected to differentiate between what is known as a white lie and a great, big lie, when his parents tell them without discrimination? The question is posed by Mrs. Paul B. Welles, president of the National Federation of Day Nurseries, and there is apparently no answer readily at hand. Is the truth to be told always, without equivocation or mental reservation? It is a nice question. It goes to the root of a problem as old as mankind, and never satisfactorily answered.

Mrs. Welles declared that parents should not scold their children for misbehavior but rather should scold themselves, in the child's presence, citing as an illustration, "You must be ashamed of me because I have not made you the good boy I want you to be." She has no doubt in her mind that the child would respond to this by taking the blame for having done something amiss and promising to try to do better.

Nevertheless, there will probably be some doubt in the mind of the average parents as to the efficacy of this line of conduct, both as it relates to the parents and to the child. It is one of those suggestions which may work, and then again it may not. We have traveled far since the days when the injunction to "spare the rod and spoil the child" was of general acceptance. But whether taking all the blame for a child's misdeeds is not a step too far in the opposite direction is something for a Solomon to decide.

KNOW WHAT YOU SIGN

Few persons realize the importance of the simple act of signing their names to contract forms, agreements and legal documents of various kinds. Perhaps it is because most of us in our daily life use our signatures so frequently for friendly identification. Whatever the reason, the average person is extremely careless about the things he signs.

Some of the results of "signing up" before looking are costly and serious. Others are less costly but irritating, such as signing up for something which you think is to be sent upon approval, and find that you have agreed to purchase it.

Any person presenting a legitimate proposal will be glad to have you read and understand every word of an agreement before you sign. Verbal promises do not mean a thing. Beware of the person who says "Just sign on this line as a matter of form. It will not bind you if you change your mind."

Frequent cases are on record of lawsuits filed in the names of persons who did not realize they were agreeing to such action. Furthermore they had unwittingly agreed to give the person representing them and whom they did not know, the greater proportion of all possible money to be collected in the event the suit was successful.

Read before you sign. If rich rewards are promised in some legal action you do not understand, consult with some one you can trust. Be suspicious of solicitors for your signature.

Schmeling is reported as being in night club training for Joe Louis, which makes it even easier to forecast the result when the two boys finally get together.

The condition of the American Indians, says the assistant commissioner of the bureau, is truly deplorable, which places them on even terms with a great many Americans who aren't Indians.

My New York
By James Aswell

(Copyright, 1936, by Central Press Assn.)

NEW YORK, May 12.—Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne are undoubtedly the most ornamental and colorful of all theatrical married pairs. Their current vehicle, "Idiot's Delight," which has just been tapped by the Pulitzer Prize Committee, is only a so-so play in these eyes, but the sound and fury of the piece signifies more than it other-wise would because of the bright presence of the Lunts.

She began her career in England as a child sprite on a high wire in a fantasy, and he in Wisconsin's Carrol College Glee Club. They have been married about sixteen years and never once have the gossip writers been able to whisper a rift in their felicity. They like the same books, the same plays, the same movies. They think alike and even look alike from some angles. They have the same political convictions and always quarrel spiritedly over the same things and make up immediately. They take their vacations together and refute the legend that opposites attract.

Now the gals are invading another field once traditionally consecrated to males. I refer to the profession of "sandwich man"—or "sandwich woman". Time was when you could scour the streets of New York without turning up a single lady parader bearing an advertising poster front and back, her head through the middle of the hinge—but no longer.

Also the old-time sandwich man was an unkempt and often a tattered figure, passing out his allotted span of hours to get a meal or change with which to purchase a slug of hooch in some Bowery "smoke joint". The girls have prettied up the calling.

Resplendent in Gypsy garb they ballyhoo tea rooms (I am reliably informed that none of these is a real Gypsy, among whom such lovely labor is considered undignified) they advertise beauty parlors, their locks freshly crisped into the newest fashion in permanents, or show off chic hats in behalf of millinery stores.

There is even one serious-looking sandwich lass who carries a double board upon which are affixed samples of stamps for collectors offered by a Nassau Street firm.

For the first time in many moons I peeked in at "Connie's Inn", once a Harlem oasis of renown and now Times Square's citadel of colored entertainment.

It seemed to me that the chocolate-tinted performers were lighter of hue than I had ever seen them. Most of them, indeed, looked as though they had merely had a slight suntan. I inquired of the redoubtable Connie whether this might have some anthropoligical significance. He said no, he had only developed a special spotlight, a sort of gray-green beam, which lightened the skins of all who basked in it.

ABOUT MUSIC

I'm never a symphony goer,
For it's nothing of music I know.
It may be I'm queer, but I haven't the ear
For the tones of the fiddle and bow.
A false note I cannot distinguish,
A flat tone I never can mark.
And I don't understand any opera grand,
But I do like a band in a park.

It is something I've always regretted.
With a genuine sorrow I've sighed
That the rapture profound of melodious sound
Is a thrill that to me was denied.
The high flights of music elude me,
Of their meaning I'm left in the dark;
Although many he charms, I am unmoved by Brahms,
But I do like a band in a park.

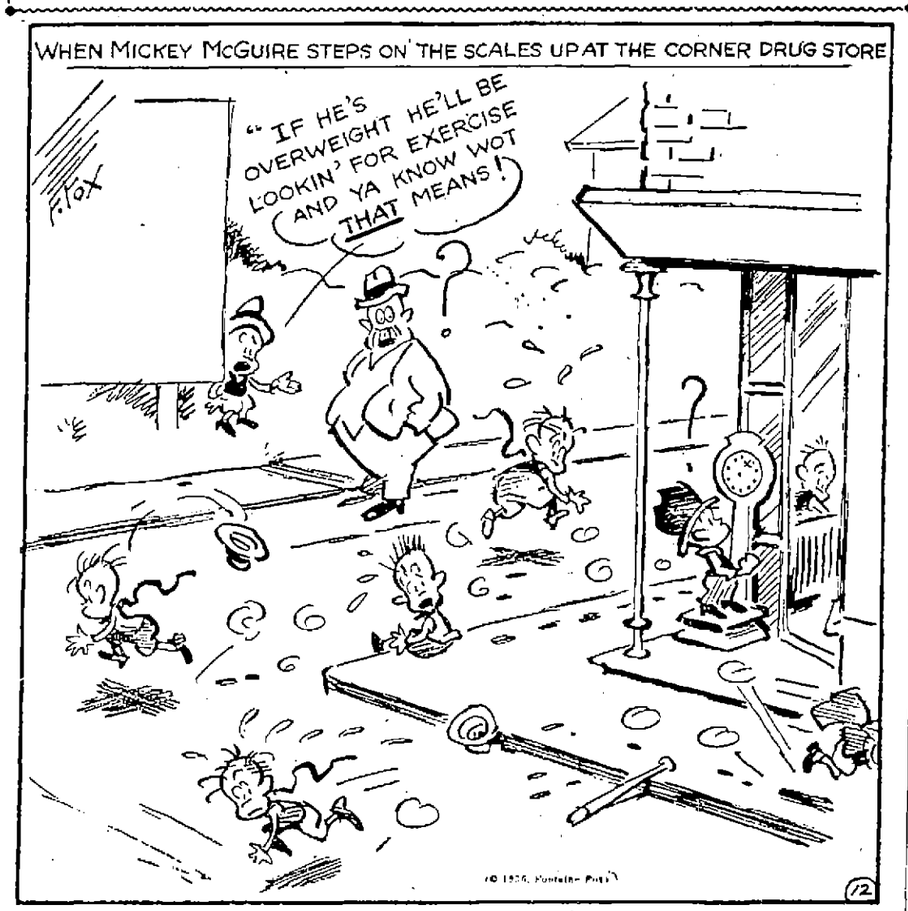

It is strange as I think it all over
How the blessings and benefits fall.
The Lord has designed countless gifts for mankind
But no one may gather them all.
To the greatest of arts I am barren,
Of its fire I lack even a spark,
And I often repine that such joy isn't mine,
But I do like a band in a park.

It's a curious fault that I carry
To be deaf to the great symphonies,
And yet I can find a contentment of mind
In the sound of the wind in the trees.
Knowing nothing of intricate music,
I can thrill to the song of a lark,
And the waves as they roar at my feet on the shore,
And I do like a band in a park.

BACHELORS OVER 35 "WARPED"

Here is a tip to the girls who are planning June weddings and perhaps those who are remembering that this year is leap year. It comes from no less an authority than Paul Popenoe of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations. Statistically speaking, he says, there are very few bachelors over 35 who are worth marrying. "The single males of 35 and up," he explains, "comprise a preponderance of mental and physical defectives or men whose outlook is so warped, so infantile or egocentric that even the most optimistic maiden, willing to marry a man to reform him, would recognize this particular job as hopeless."

Sleepwalking was a sad experience for 7-year-old Francis Bulac who lives in the nation's capital. He walked right through an open window and fell to the concrete sidewalk 25 feet below but received only minor cuts and bruises. His windows are now nailed down.

LONDON' FOGGY RIVALS

London isn't the only foggy place. Records of United States Lighthouse Service show the mean yearly average for fogs off the New England coast to be over 1,800 hours, the Great Lakes 1,150 and that of the west coast more than 1,100. An all time high was recorded at Seguin, Maine, in 1907 when it was foggy during 2,734 hours or 30 per cent of the year. Calumet Harbor set the record for the Great Lakes region in 1913 with 2,269 hours while the Pacific coast record was established in 1916 when the San Francisco light vessel registered 2,221 hours during the year.

Good Taste
By FRANCINE MARKEL

By FRANCINE MARKEL

DEAR MISS MARKEL—My mother is planning a musicale in my honor. What time should we hold it? What kind of invitations should she send out? I do not wish her to go to the expense of having them engraved. What should my mother and I wear? Should I have printed programs?

R. D.

Answer—Your invitations may be verbal or telephoned messages, informal notes or written on visiting cards. Your mother's visiting cards should be used, inasmuch as she is giving the musicale in your honor. If the latter form is used, the words "Musicale at four o'clock" (or whatever time you wish) should be written across the top of each card, and the address at the bottom.

If the musicale is to be held in the morning, eleven is the usual hour. Four is the customary afternoon hour, and eight-thirty in the evening.

If the affair is to take place in the afternoon (as I assume yours will) wear a silk afternoon dress—what you would wear to a luncheon or to a tea. Punch and small cakes or tea and small sandwiches may be served in an adjoining room during intermission or at the close of the program.

At large, formal musicales printed programs are used, but when the affair is informal either the musician or the hostess may announce the selections. It is important to bear in mind that the announcer must be entirely familiar with the proper pronunciations of the musical numbers as well as the composers' names.

Your mother should stand just inside the door to greet the guests and direct them to their places.

The World At A Glance

Await Moves In France.
Financiers Not Disturbed.
May Halt Armament Race.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

WHAT WILL a Socialist government of France do?

Well, strange to say, international financiers seem less disturbed over it than the election of a nationalist government. It is the nationalist governments — the Fascists and the Nazis—which have been disturbing world affairs.

A Socialist government in France is less likely to disturb monetary conditions in favor of French bankers. It is likely to have an "international mind"—to endeavor to reach out for a monetary stabilization agreement rather than resort to a monetary war to keep the French franc on top.

That seems to be the reaction among international bankers.

HALT ARMS' RACE?

Furthermore, a Socialist government is likely to try to halt the mad arms' race which has seized the entire world. That is another belief among well-informed men.

But such a halt cannot be put into effect if Nazi Germany continues arming. A French Socialist or Communist remains a Frenchman—and German Nazi.

There is a danger, however, that arms' expenditures will reach such a figure that peoples will refuse to bear the burden. There may be uprisings. Not every ruler can bring in a victory to save the day—as did Mussolini.

Much more is being spent on arms in the world today than on relief or on measures of public welfare.

The United States leads in arms' expenditures. In this nation, arms expenditures total half as much as relief expenditures. Yet the cry has been to lower relief expenditures and to raise arms' expenditures.

Similar conditions apply in Great Britain.

IN U. S.

It is not the Socialists who will amount to anything in this year's national election in the United States. Nor the Communists. No; it will be a body of protestors embodied in such organization as the Townsend and Coughlin groups. Both are to hold national conventions in Cleveland, following the conventions of the Socialists and the Republicans in the same city.

The Townsend and Coughlin groups are composed not merely of sincere protestors but demagogues as well. These organizations contain the germs of fascism, which could develop under a dosage of hysteria, critics assert.

Such groups may follow President Roosevelt in the campaign, or they may organize themselves into blocs, supporting nobody. That would aid the Republican candidate.

Ammunition for hysteria is provided, unintentionally, by wealthy interests backing the Republicans. The return to huge salaries, the fight on moderate measures for the middle class, etc., have coagulated large masses of despairing people.

Father Coughlin, at the same time, cries "red" at nearly all the Roosevelt measures (which, ironically, many of his followers say do not go far enough). Thus we have a situation much like that which preceded the Nazi rise in Germany. (Read the early Hitler speeches against the Social Democratic government. American labor, however, is somewhat more wary of promises, for when Hitler rose to power labor unions were abolished.)

MANY TRUTHS SPOKEN

Many truths, however, are spoken within these blocs. As all types of convention pass in review before observers in Cleveland, it will be interesting to disentangle the wishes of the people from the skeins of demagogic oratory.

Those wishes signify hopes unrewarded. Perhaps the political leaders of the nation ought to sit through all the conventions to be held in Cleveland this summer.

People are searching for real leaders the world over. That is why they often entrap themselves, for, in their eagerness to escape despair, they fall into the pit, covered with silken webs of oratory and demagoguery.

In San Diego, California, there's an Americanized Briton, with a dash of Scotch in him, who's going to Tia Juana (next time, if any) wearing just a topcoat over his underwear.

Because last time he absorbed some tequila that shouted down his dash of Scotch, after which he invested in a nice London-tailored suit, and brought it home in a box.

And at the line, sneeze, they soaked him $22.50 duty on it—ruling that a suit is not a souvenir, nor does a trip to Tia Juana render one a "tourist-traveler." So his next imported suit, if any, is coming in on his laigs and his shoulders.

Today's Yesterdays: May 12, 1789—The Tammany Society or Columbian Order was founded in New York—as a Republican organization. Formed as a benevolent or fraternal organization, its purpose was to "combat the influence of the aristocrats in politics."

The name, borne originally by a sachem of the Delawares who sold land to William Penn, was suggested by a "Society of St. Tammany" which grew out of May Pole festivities.

May 12, 1820—The girl from whom the girls named Florence get their name, was born in Florence, Italy, which is where she got her name. This, of course, was Florence Nightingale, daughter of a wealthy English family, who became one of the world's greatest humanitarians against the opposition of her family and the British army.

May 12, 1865—Maggie Clark died, aged 24, a few months after her marriage to George Washington Johnson, with whom she had fallen in love while he was her schoolteacher in Glanford, Ontario. She was the inspiration of his poem, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," which was set to music by J. A. Butterfield, an American, became one of the most enduringly popular ballads.

ARID, INDEED!

An Easterner visiting a small town in the west attempted to start up a friendly conversation with a native.

"Can you tell me," he said, "what is the status of the liquor supply around here?"

"Status? Well, sir, I don't get you."

"I mean do you encounter much difficulty in obtaining liquor in town?"

"Well, sir," said the native, "all I can tell you is that a little while back they turned off the water supply for a week and nobody knew about it until the church caught fire."

When a couple goes horseback riding, the man should lead the way on entering a woodland bridle path, and should keep to the woman's right when riding side by side.

"COURAGE AND DEVOTION TO DUTY"

THE words with which the president accompanied the advancement of rank of Mr. Engert, the American minister at Addis Ababa who so valiantly defended the legation from native attacks, express felicitously the nature of his conduct in trying circumstances.

Practically undefended by any but the few persons within, the building was held for four days by Mr. Engert and his companions until relief came from the stronger British embassy. It was a brilliant chapter in our diplomatic annals. Not only Mr. Engert, but his wife, his staff and four navy radio men share the president's praise.

There is, indeed, as Admiral Schley once said, glory enough for all. The opportunity to win fame in this relatively obscure diplomatic post could hardly have been anticipated by its occupant. But when the hour came the man was there to meet it. There must be representatives of the United States all over the world who would be as quick to answer the call of duty, no matter what dangers it might involve.

LIGHTS THAT BLIND

In praiseworthy pursuit of highway safety 25,000 automobile drivers are to be tested at Rockefeller Center, New York City, for reactions to glaring headlights. The experiment is in its initial stages, but results thus far have established scientifically what has been proved so tragically at countless hospitals and morgues. That is that glaring headlights constitute a menace which "seriously affects more people than suspected it."

Dr. Harry R. De Silva of the Harvard Bureau of Street Traffic Research knows only one remedy for drivers susceptible to glare. Whenever particularly dazzling lights are encountered he counsels them to "slow down to creeping if necessary." Cars are geared to higher speeds and so are drivers, unfortunately. This necessitates stronger lights and the combination has produced indisputably tragic results.

THE PERILS OF EATING

When drowsiness overtakes you along about 11 o'clock of a May morning it is not necessarily a sign of spring fever; nor does it mean you should have resolutely resisted the plea for "just one more rubber" at the Smiths which ended at 2 a. m., yawns and another argument. If you fall asleep at conferences don't always blame the stale air and staler speeches. It may be the cream in your coffee is more soporific than the chairman, and that what you thought was spring fever is merely spinach.

The perils of eating were described by Dr. Walter Alvarez of the Mayo Clinic. He spoke before the American Gastro-Enterological Association in Atlantic City, where the perils of eating were thought to consist only of picking up the check for a chicken sandwich at a night club. Dr. Alvarez recounted his experience with a businessman who had been in the expensive hands of psychiatrists for eight or nine years. Placed on an elimination diet for the hives, the businessman was actually cured of insanity and psychiatrists. So when you awaken with that morning-after feeling, are caught napping by the boss or miss the laugh line in the customer's story, don't always condemn the barman. Blame the cook. For it probably was the planked shad.

LIES, BIG AND LITTLE

How can a little child be expected to differentiate between what is known as a white lie and a great, big lie, when his parents tell them without discrimination? The question is posed by Mrs. Paul B. Welles, president of the National Federation of Day Nurseries, and there is apparently no answer readily at hand. Is the truth to be told always, without equivocation or mental reservation? It is a nice question. It goes to the root of a problem as old as mankind, and never satisfactorily answered.

Mrs. Welles declared that parents should not scold their children for misbehavior but rather should scold themselves, in the child's presence, citing as an illustration, "You must be ashamed of me because I have not made you the good boy I want you to be." She has no doubt in her mind that the child would respond to this by taking the blame for having done something amiss and promising to try to do better.

Nevertheless, there will probably be some doubt in the mind of the average parents as to the efficacy of this line of conduct, both as it relates to the parents and to the child. It is one of those suggestions which may work, and then again it may not. We have traveled far since the days when the injunction to "spare the rod and spoil the child" was of general acceptance. But whether taking all the blame for a child's misdeeds is not a step too far in the opposite direction is something for a Solomon to decide.

KNOW WHAT YOU SIGN

Few persons realize the importance of the simple act of signing their names to contract forms, agreements and legal documents of various kinds. Perhaps it is because most of us in our daily life use our signatures so frequently for friendly identification. Whatever the reason, the average person is extremely careless about the things he signs.

Some of the results of "signing up" before looking are costly and serious. Others are less costly but irritating, such as signing up for something which you think is to be sent upon approval, and find that you have agreed to purchase it.

Any person presenting a legitimate proposal will be glad to have you read and understand every word of an agreement before you sign. Verbal promises do not mean a thing. Beware of the person who says "Just sign on this line as a matter of form. It will not bind you if you change your mind."

Frequent cases are on record of lawsuits filed in the names of persons who did not realize they were agreeing to such action. Furthermore they had unwittingly agreed to give the person representing them and whom they did not know, the greater proportion of all possible money to be collected in the event the suit was successful.

Read before you sign. If rich rewards are promised in some legal action you do not understand, consult with some one you can trust. Be suspicious of solicitors for your signature.

My New York By James Aswell

(Copyright, 1936, by Central Press Assn.)

NEW YORK, May 12.—Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne are undoubtedly the most ornamental and colorful of all theatrical married pairs. Their current vehicle, "Idiot's Delight," which has just been tapped by the Pulitzer Prize Committee, is only a so-so play in these eyes, but the sound and fury of the piece signifies more than it other-wise would because of the bright presence of the Lunts.

She began her career in England as a child sprite on a high wire in a fantasy, and he in Wisconsin's Carrol College Glee Club. They have been married about sixteen years and never once have the gossip writers been able to whisper a rift in their felicity. They like the same books, the same plays, the same movies. They think alike and even look alike from some angles. They have the same political convictions and always quarrel spiritedly over the same things and make up immediately. They take their vacations together and refute the legend that opposites attract.

Now the gals are invading another field once traditionally consecrated to males. I refer to the profession of "sandwich man"—or "sandwich woman". Time was when you could scour the streets of New York without turning up a single lady parader bearing an advertising poster front and back, her head through the middle of the hinge—but no longer.

Also the old-time sandwich man was an unkempt and often a tattered figure, passing out his allotted span of hours to get a meal or change with which to purchase a slug of hooch in some Bowery "smoke joint". The girls have prettied up the calling.

Resplendent in Gypsy garb they ballyhoo tea rooms (I am reliably informed that none of these is a real Gypsy, among whom such lovely labor is considered undignified) they advertise beauty parlors, their locks freshly crisped into the newest fashion in permanents, or show off chic hats in behalf of millinery stores.

There is even one serious-looking sandwich lass who carries a double board upon which are affixed samples of stamps for collectors offered by a Nassau Street firm.

For the first time in many moons I peeked in at "Connie's Inn", once a Harlem oasis of renown and now Times Square's citadel of colored entertainment.

It seemed to me that the chocolate-tinted performers were lighter of hue than I had ever seen them. Most of them, indeed, looked as though they had merely had a slight suntan. I inquired of the redoubtable Connie whether this might have some anthropoligical significance. He said no, he had only developed a special spotlight, a sort of gray-green beam, which lightened the skins of all who basked in it.

ABOUT MUSIC

I'm never a symphony goer,
For it's nothing of music I know.
It may be I'm queer, but I haven't the ear
For the tones of the fiddle and bow.
A false note I cannot distinguish,
A flat tone I never can mark.
And I don't understand any opera grand,
But I do like a band in a park.

It is something I've always regretted.
With a genuine sorrow I've sighed
That the rapture profound of melodious sound
Is a thrill that to me was denied.
The high flights of music elude me,
Of their meaning I'm left in the dark;
Although many he charms, I am unmoved by Brahms,
But I do like a band in a park.

It is strange as I think it all over
How the blessings and benefits fall.
The Lord has designed countless gifts for mankind
But no one may gather them all.
To the greatest of arts I am barren,
Of its fire I lack even a spark,
And I often repine that such joy isn't mine,
But I do like a band in a park.

It's a curious fault that I carry
To be deaf to the great symphonies,
And yet I can find a contentment of mind
In the sound of the wind in the trees.
Knowing nothing of intricate music,
I can thrill to the song of a lark,
And the waves as they roar at my feet on the shore,
And I do like a band in a park.

BACHELORS OVER 35 "WARPED"

Here is a tip to the girls who are planning June weddings and perhaps those who are remembering that this year is leap year. It comes from no less an authority than Paul Popenoe of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations. Statistically speaking, he says, there are very few bachelors over 35 who are worth marrying. "The single males of 35 and up," he explains, "comprise a preponderance of mental and physical defectives or men whose outlook is so warped, so infantile or egocentric that even the most optimistic maiden, willing to marry a man to reform him, would recognize this particular job as hopeless."

LONDON' FOGGY RIVALS

London isn't the only foggy place. Records of United States Lighthouse Service show the mean yearly average for fogs off the New England coast to be over 1,300 hours, the Great Lakes 1,150 and that of the west coast more than 1,100. An all time high was recorded at Seguin, Maine., in 1907 when it was foggy during 2,734 hours or 30 per cent of the year. Calumet Harbor set the record for the Great Lakes region in 1913 with 2,269 hours while the Pacific coast record was established in 1916 when the San Francisco light vessel registered 2,221 hours during the year.

By FRANCINE MARKEL

DEAR MISS MARKEL—My mother is planning a musicale in my honor. What time should we hold it? What kind of invitations should she send out? I do not wish her to go to the expense of having them engraved. What should my mother and I wear? Should I have printed programs?

R. D.

Answer—Your invitations may be verbal or telephoned messages, informal notes or written on visiting cards. Your mother's visiting cards should be used, inasmuch as she is giving the musicale in your honor. If the latter form is used, the words "Musicale at four o'clock" (or whatever time you wish) should be written across the top of each card, and the address at the bottom.

If the musicale is to be held in the morning, eleven is the usual hour. Four is the customary afternoon hour, and eight-thirty in the evening.

If the affair is to take place in the afternoon (as I assume yours will) wear a silk afternoon dress—what you would wear to a luncheon or to a tea. Punch and small cakes or tea and small sandwiches may be served in an adjoining room during intermission or at the close of the program.

At large, formal musicales printed programs are used, but when the affair is informal either the musician or the hostess may announce the selections. It is important to bear in mind that the announcer must be entirely familiar with the proper pronunciations of the musical numbers as well as the composers' names.

Your mother should stand just inside the door to greet the guests and direct them to their places.

The World At A Glance

Await Moves In France.
Financiers Not Disturbed.
May Halt Armament Race.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

WHAT WILL a Socialist government of France do?

Well, strange to say, international financiers seem less disturbed over it than the election of a nationalist government. It is the nationalist governments — the Fascists and the Nazis—which have been disturbing world affairs.

A Socialist government in France is less likely to disturb monetary conditions in favor of French bankers. It is likely to have an "international mind"—to endeavor to reach out for a monetary stabilization agreement rather than resort to a monetary war to keep the French franc on top.

That seems to be the reaction among international bankers.

HALT ARMS' RACE?

Furthermore, a Socialist government is likely to try to halt the mad arms' race which has seized the entire world. That is another belief among well-informed men.

But such a halt cannot be put into effect if Nazi Germany continues arming. A French Socialist or Communist remains a Frenchman—and German Nazi.

There is a danger, however, that arms' expenditures will reach such a figure that peoples will refuse to bear the burden. There may be uprisings. Not every ruler can bring in a victory to save the day—as did Mussolini.

Much more is being spent on arms in the world today than on relief or on measures of public welfare.

The United States leads in arms' expenditures. In this nation, arms expenditures total half as much as relief expenditures. Yet the cry has been to lower relief expenditures and to raise arms' expenditures.

Similar conditions apply in Great Britain.

IN U. S.

It is not the Socialists who will amount to anything in this year's national election in the United States. Nor the Communists. No; it will be a body of protestors embodied in such organization as the Townsend and Coughlin groups. Both are to hold national conventions in Cleveland, following the conventions of the Socialists and the Republicans in the same city.

The Townsend and Coughlin groups are composed not merely of sincere protestors but demagogues as well. These organizations contain the germs of fascism, which could develop under a dosage of hysteria, critics assert.

Such groups may follow President Roosevelt in the campaign, or they may organize themselves into blocs, supporting nobody. That would aid the Republican candidate.

Ammunition for hysteria is provided, unintentionally, by wealthy interests backing the Republicans. The return to huge salaries, the fight on moderate measures for the middle class, etc., have coagulated large masses of despairing people.

Father Coughlin, at the same time, cries "red" at nearly all the Roosevelt measures (which, ironically, many of his followers say do not go far enough). Thus we have a situation much like that which preceded the Nazi rise in Germany. (Read the early Hitler speeches against the Social Democratic government. American labor, however, is somewhat more wary of promises, for when Hitler rose to power labor unions were abolished.)

MANY TRUTHS SPOKEN

Many truths, however, are spoken within these blocs. As all types of convention pass in review before observers in Cleveland, it will be interesting to disentangle the wishes of the people from the skeins of demagogic oratory.

Those wishes signify hopes unrewarded. Perhaps the political leaders of the nation ought to sit through all the conventions to be held in Cleveland this summer.

People are searching for real leaders the world over. That is why they often entrap themselves, for, in their eagerness to escape despair, they fall into the pit, covered with silken webs of oratory and demagoguery.

GUNNISON, Colo.—Talk is a waste of time, anyway, Uley Schierold-time prospector and trapper, declared when he arrived at Gunnison from his home in Taylor Park, 50 miles north of here, recently. For four months deep snows had isolated his cabin and he hadn't seen another human being to talk to. Noted Naturalist Stresses Conservation Of Wild Life

Appreciation of the beauties of nature, wildlife in all its forms—flower, bird, animal—was stressed by Charles Melville Shipman, of Willoughby, O. naturalist, who spoke before the Woman's Club Monday afternoon, in Highland U. P. church.

Mr. Shipman took for his subject, "The Calendar of Nature", and with the use of colored photographic views, illustrated his talk, beginning with winter scenes (most refreshing on a hot May afternoon with the thermometer registering 93 outdoors.)

With spring, or in fact summer, unfolding daily, in the great outdoors, the speaker's slides on early flowers, green trees, new bird and animal life, were especially interesting. He emphasized conservation, and urged restraint of the desire "to pick every pretty thing we see in the spring". He concluded his vividly portrayed remarks by showing a helpless thing in a human hand and saying "Our generation who has preservation in hand should not destroy but rather cherish and preserve."

Mr. Shipman came highly recommended to the local club, as an authority and interesting speaker He lived up to his reputation, for as instructive and profitable an afternoon was enjoyed by the Woman's club as it has been its privilege to have this season which is just closing. Mrs. Shipman assisted with the program, which was under the auspices of the Conservation department, Mrs. F. F. Urey chairman. Hostesses were Mrs. H. R. McCulloch and Mrs. M. Schoenberger.

Before introducing the speaker, Mrs. Urey gave a resume of the work accomplished this year by the 54 members in the Conservation department, the group enlarging during the past two years since it was organized from 18 members. The year was most successful, as well as enjoyable.

The setting for yesterday's meeting was appropriate, many large baskets and vases of flowers, lilacs, tulips and roses with ferns and other greenery, furnishing a colorful background.

At the business session previously presided over by the president, Mrs. R. S. Tannehill, several announcements were made; one concerned a cancellation of the Conservation department meeting dated for May 20 at Mrs. E. F. G. Harper's. Instead, the group will spend a day in June at the Offutt cottage along the Slippery Rock, at the invitation of Mrs. John Offutt and Mrs. W. J. Offutt.

Outdoor recreation will be provided for the Home department in an all day meeting on May 28, at Castle Hills, as Mrs. Max Ludwig's guests. Following a morning of golf, there will be luncheon, and a speaker in the afternoon, Attorney W. J. Caldwell.

The final meeting of the Woman's club will take place May 25, with the Music department, Mrs. Eliah Kaplan, chairman, in charge. Several local artists including Mrs. W. P. Feich, Miss Kathryn Bittner and Miss Dorothy Fisher will furnish the entertainment, on which a two piano number will feature.

Stage Show At Penn Starting Tomorrow

A really different type of stage show will be seen when the "Serenaders" open a three-day engagement tomorrow at the Penn Theatre.

Seen in the production are many famous people who have appeared on Lowe's and RKO circuit stages. Among them are Rufus Armstrong, black face comedian; Ross Lewis and the Maryland Sisters, Norma Royster, Sabas and Cinona, Hawaiians, who feature the electric singing guitar; Morris Nelson, singing master of ceremonies; Jean Le Raux, modernistic dancer; Elsa Bard, petite tap dancer; the very funny Arkansaw Travelers, a mirthful hill billy group, and the "Serenaders Orchestra."

Frazier-Lemke Inflation Bill Facing Defeat

Democratic Leaders Term $3,000,000,000 Bill As "Dangerous Inflation"

QUITE SURPRISED AT CONSIDERATION

Leaders Look For Roosevelt To Lend Aid In Submerging Refining Bill

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Defeat of the $3,000,000,000 Frazier-Lemke bill for refinancing farm mortgages by issuance of new currency was predicted by Democratic leaders today despite the fact that the bill survived its first two tests.

Branding the bill as "dangerous inflation," the powerful Democratic house organization redoubled its efforts to crush the measure.

Leaders explained yesterday's action of the house in voting, 220 to 153, to call the bill from the rules committee on the ground that many members had promised to give the bill its day in court.

Quite Surprised

They admitted privately, however, that they were surprised when forces supporting the measure rolled up a 67 majority for consideration. The leadership had hoped to crush the measure on the first vote.

As the house prepared to launch into six hours of debate on the bill, a final vote appeared likely tomorrow. There was a possibility that the efforts would be made to kill the bill today.

"I am gratified," said Rep. William Lemke, the scrappy North Dakota Republican who won a year-old fight for action on the bill over the opposition of the house organization. He declined to make predictions.

Predicts Defeat

"The measure will be defeated by 50 votes," said Rep. Pat Boland of Pennsylvania, Democratic whip.

Speaker Byrns and Rep. Bankhead of Alabama, majority leader, also predicted defeat of the bill.

Leaders looked hopefully to the White House for aid from President Roosevelt in submerging the measure. They unhesitatingly asserted that Mr. Roosevelt would veto the bill if it reaches him.

Meantime supporters of the Rev. Charles Coughlin and the National Farmers Union bombarded members with appeals to support the measure.

Refinance Indebtedness

The measure provides for refinancing of existing farm indebtedness at 1½ percent interest and authorizes issuance of $3,000,000,000 of federal reserve notes if bonds are not sold.

"Under provisions of this bill," explained Lemke, "there would be issued and put into circulation between two and three billion dollars of new money—federal reserve notes.

"This, used as a revolving fund, would be sufficient to refinance all of the farm indebtedness and save two million farm families from ruination."

May Bar Amendments

While proposals were to be made to extend the bill to include issuance of currency to refinance city home mortgage indebtedness amendments to this effect may be barred.

Rep. Jones (D) of Texas, planned to offer his own refinancing bill, calling for establishment of a "United States Banking system for agriculture" as a substitute for the Frazier-Lemke bill. Under the Jones plan farm mortgages would be refinanced at two per cent interest up to $5000.

West Middlesex Leader Here Boosting Centennial

New Castle residents who lived in West Middlesex or those whose ancestors were original settlers there, were called upon today to join the entire West Middlesex community in the centennial celebration arranged to mark the anniversary of the founding of the town's Methodist Episcopal church.

Harry Parshall, chairman of the invitation committee for the gala observance, came here today to promote local interest in the May 31-June 6 festivities.

"Governor Alf Landon's own grandfather, the Rev. Wm Messman, was twice the pastor of the church whose anniversary will be celebrated," explained Mr. Parshall. "The presidential aspirant cannot come for this particular celebration but he is expected to visit the town this summer."

Parshall today asked former residents living here to communicate with him at West Middlesex at once. He said that a two-page letter came to him from New Castle last week, but it so happens the writer forgot to sign it.

Five hundred invitations already have been mailed out and 100 are to be placed in the mails, Mr. Parshall said. Polo matches, boxing and other sports and entertainment is being arranged for the celebration, it was pointed out.

"We should have a big time of it, and we want New Castle to be represented," the invitation committee declared.

Dr. D. L. Tinker is general chairman of the centennial observance and the boro of West Middlesex and Shenango township which adjoins it are the official sponsors.

Census Approaches Completion Locally

Business Survey Nears End; Jordan Calls Attention To Penalties

Census Supervisor Ralph T. Jordan, directing the government's newest census of business in the 25th congressional district, declared today that "the census work is fast approaching completion."

Jordan reported today that only a very few firms have declined to cooperate in providing the confidential information asked by enumerators during the past few months, and warned that the deadline for the census is near.

"Our office can only report to Washington the firms which have not cooperated as 'refusals'," Mr. Jordan said. "The act which provides for the census also provides penalties for 'any person violating the provisions of this section by refusing or willfully neglecting to answer any of said questions.' We are urging all firms to provide the requested data at once."

The act of congress of June 18, 1929 carries the full purpose of the census, Jordan asserted.

Mr. Jordan and his office staff are located in the Federal building here. They are directing the work in Beaver and Butler counties as well as Lawrence.

OLD FIRE SYSTEM IN OHIO CITY JUNKED

(International News Service)

POMEROY, O., May 12.—The raucous screams of the Pomeroy fire alarm system have been silenced. City council sold the outfit for a paltry $350, just the amount needed for a new fire siren which it is hoped will answer the purpose far better than the other. It will if is operates at all, according to the unanimous opinion of the city.

The old alarm system bought in 1928, cost the village $5,000 and could be heard only in certain parts of the town because of the hills surrounding the town.

CHINESE LEADER DIES

(International News Service)

HONG KONG, May 12.—Hu Han-Min, leader of the Koumintang party of China, died here today.

OLDER PEOPLE HAVE PROBLEMS

World's Tonic, Mr. Jordan Says, Solved His Troubles

"Older people who have worked hard all of their lives have problems younger folks never think about," said Mr. Homer Jordan, living at New Castle, Pa., who is well along in the sixties. He says: "How to keep our strength and spirits up after we pass the middle of our manhood is quite a problem. I had always enjoyed good health and was as able to do a good day's work as a younger man until last summer. I felt the heat so much more than I ever had before that I knew something was wrong. Most old folks, you know, like warm weather. Then when winter rolled around I actually suffered. There were times when it did not seem that I would ever get warm again. I would go to bed and get colder and colder, until in the middle of the night I would wake up actually chilled, although I had on a big pile of bed clothing. I noticed at the same time that my appetite was failing. In fact, nothing I ate seemed to taste good. My stomach was off, for the first time in my life, and I belched gas and had a bad taste in my mouth. I noticed that I was becoming very constipated, too. I took medicine for this. It gave me relief for a day or two, and then I felt worse. Finally I lost all ambition to work, and was content to sit around my son's fire last winter because I could not get warm enough to feel comfortable.

"My boy had read so much about so many people having catarrh in this climate so he brought home a bottle of World's Tonic, thinking it might help me. We all thought my troubles were the result of age, and could not be helped, but the boy said if any medicine would make dad feel a little better it was worth the price. Well, sir, the World's Tonic did a great deal more than that. It cleared up my stomach, set my bowels to working right, relieved a kidney and bladder trouble that worried me, and made me feel so good that I went back to my old job and can handle it as well as any younger man. I eat what I want, sleep like a baby, am free from pains and aches, and do a good day's work with pleasure. All ailing people certainly need World's Tonic." This valuable medicine can be obtained at Eckerd's; Paisley's or at any other first class drug store. (A-581)

Troop F. Mustered Thirty Years Ago

Originally Formed Under Captain Joseph V. Cunningham $n May, 1904

Thirty two years ago yesterday, Monday May 11, 1904, Troop of the First Pennsylvania Cavalry was mustered into service in the Court House. With Captain Jos. V. Cunningham the following officers were charged with the carrying on of the troop work. First Lieutenant Thos. C. Armstrong, Second Lieutenant William H. Dunlap, Lieutenant-Quartermaster Ralph M. Campbell, Lieutenant-Surgeon Allan W. Urmson. The first sergeant was Marshall McMillin.

About forty men were mustered in and up to the time of the Mexican Border disturbance in 1916 the troop was as much a social organization as is was military. In 1916 the troop went to the Mexican Border where it demonstrated such proficiency as to draw down the commendation of the regular army officers.

Early in 1917 the troop was again mustered into Federal service and sent to Camp Hancock, Augusta, Georgia. The calvary was disbanded there and the men placed in such outfits as the engineers, artillery, sanitary train, infantry, machine gun and quartermaster corps.

In 1920 Captain C. Lee Horner reorganized the troop and since then it has been in existence although part of the time as a mounted engineer unit. At the present time the troop is a unit of the 103rd Cavalry. For a time it was known as Troop A of the 104th cavalry but when the 103rd was organized it was given back its old troop designation.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Defeat of the $3,000,000,000 Frazier-Lemke bill for refinancing farm mortgages by issuance of new currency was predicted by Democratic leaders today despite the fact that the bill survived its first two tests.

Branding the bill as "dangerous inflation," the powerful Democratic house organization redoubled its efforts to crush the measure.

Leaders explained yesterday's action of the house in voting, 220 to 153, to call the bill from the rules committee on the ground that many members had promised to give the bill its day in court.

Quite Surprised

They admitted privately, however, that they were surprised when forces supporting the measure rolled up a 67 majority for consideration. The leadership had hoped to crush the measure on the first vote.

As the house prepared to launch into six hours of debate on the bill, a final vote appeared likely tomorrow. There was a possibility that the efforts would be made to kill the bill today.

"I am gratified," said Rep. William Lemke, the scrappy North Dakota Republican who won a year-old fight for action on the bill over the opposition of the house organization. He declined to make predictions.

Predicts Defeat

"The measure will be defeated by 50 votes," said Rep. Pat Boland of Pennsylvania, Democratic whip.

Speaker Byrns and Rep. Bankhead of Alabama, majority leader, also predicted defeat of the bill.

Leaders looked hopefully to the White House for aid from President Roosevelt in submerging the measure. They unhesitatingly asserted that Mr. Roosevelt would veto the bill if it reaches him.

Meantime supporters of the Rev. Charles Coughlin and the National Farmers Union bombarded members with appeals to support the measure.

Refinance Indebtedness

The measure provides for refinancing of existing farm indebtedness at 1½ percent interest and authorizes issuance of $3,000,000,000 of federal reserve notes if bonds are not sold.

"Under provisions of this bill," explained Lemke, "there would be issued and put into circulation between two and three billion dollars of new money—federal reserve notes.

"This, used as a revolving fund, would be sufficient to refinance all of the farm indebtedness and save two million farm families from ruination."

May Bar Amendments

While proposals were to be made to extend the bill to include issuance of currency to refinance city home mortgage indebtedness amendments to this effect may be barred.

Rep. Jones (D) of Texas, planned to offer his own refinancing bill, calling for establishment of a "United States Banking system for agriculture" as a substitute for the Frazier-Lemke bill. Under the Jones plan farm mortgages would be refinanced at two per cent interest up to $5000.

West Middlesex Leader Here Boosting Centennial

New Castle residents who lived in West Middlesex or those whose ancestors were original settlers there, were called upon today to join the entire West Middlesex community in the centennial celebration arranged to mark the anniversary of the founding of the town's Methodist Episcopal church.

Harry Parshall, chairman of the invitation committee for the gala observance, came here today to promote local interest in the May 31-June 6 festivities.

"Governor Alf Landon's own grandfather, the Rev. Wm Mossman, was twice the pastor of the church whose anniversary will be celebrated," explained Mr. Parshall. "The presidential aspirant cannot come for this particular celebration but he is expected to visit the town this summer."

Parshall today asked former residents living here to communicate with him at West Middlesex at once. He said that a two-page letter came to him from New Castle last week, but it so happens the writer forgot to sign it.

Five hundred invitations already have been mailed out and 100 are to be placed in the mails, Mr. Parshall said. Polo matches, boxing and other sports and entertainment is being arranged for the celebration, it was pointed out.

"We should have a big time of it, and we want New Castle to be represented," the invitation committee declared.

Dr. D. L. Tinker is general chairman of the centennial observance and the boro of West Middlesex and Shenango township which adjoins it are the official sponsors.

Census Approaches Completion Locally

Business Survey Nears End; Jordan Calls Attention To Penalties

Census Supervisor Ralph T. Jordan, directing the government's newest census of business in the 26th congressional district, declared today that "the census work is fast approaching completion."

Jordan reported today that only a very few firms have declined to cooperate in providing the confidential information asked by enumerators during the past few months, and warned that the deadline for the census is near.

"Our office can only report to Washington the firms which have not cooperated as 'refusals'," Mr. Jordan said. "The act which provides for the census also provides penalties for 'any person violating the provisions of this section by refusing or willfully neglecting to answer any of said questions.' We are urging all firms to provide the requested data at once."

The act of congress of June 18, 1929 carries the full purpose of the census, Jordan asserted.

Mr. Jordan and his office staff are located in the Federal building here. They are directing the work in Beaver and Butler counties as well as Lawrence.

OLD FIRE SYSTEM IN OHIO CITY JUNKED

(International News Service)

POMEROY, O., May 12.—The raucous screams of the Pomeroy fire alarm system have been silenced. City council sold the outfit for a paltry $350, just the amount needed for a new fire siren which it is hoped will answer the purpose far better than the other. It will if is operates at all, according to the unanimous opinion of the city.

The old alarm system bought in 1928, cost the village $5,000 and could be heard only in certain parts of the town because of the hills surrounding the town.

OLDER PEOPLE HAVE PROBLEMS

World's Tonic, Mr. Jordan Says, Solved His Troubles

"Older people who have worked hard all of their lives have problems younger folks never think about," said Mr. Homer Jordan, living at New Castle, Pa., who is well along in the sixties. He says: "How to keep our strength and spirits up after we pass the middle of our manhood is quite a problem. I had always enjoyed good health and was as able to do a good day's work as a younger man until last summer. I felt the heat so much more than I ever had before that I knew something was wrong. Most old folks, you know, like warm weather. Then when winter rolled around I actually suffered. There were times when it did not seem that I would ever get warm again. I would go to bed and get colder and colder, until in the middle of the night I would wake up actually chilled, although I had on a big pile of bed clothing. I noticed at the same time that my appetite was failing. In fact, nothing I ate seemed to taste good. My stomach was off, for the first time in my life, and I belched gas and had a bad taste in my mouth. I noticed that I was becoming very constipated, too. I took medicine for this. It gave me relief for a day or two, and then I felt worse. Finally I lost all ambition to work, and was content to sit around my son's fire last winter because I could not get warm enough to feel comforable.

"My boy had read so much about so many people having catarrh in this climate so he brought home a bottle of World's Tonic, thinking it might help me. We all thought my troubles were the result of age, and could not be helped, but the boy said if any medicine would make dad feel a little better it was worth the price. Well, sir, the World's Tonic did a great deal more than that. It cleared up my stomach, set my bowels to working right, relieved a kidney and bladder trouble that worried me, and made me feel so good that I went back to my old job and can handle it as well as any younger man. I eat what I want, sleep like a baby, am free from pains and aches, and do a good day's work with pleasure. All ailing people certainly need World's Tonic." This valuable medicine can be obtained at Eckerd's; Paisley's or at any other first class drug store. (A-58)

Troop F. Mustered Thirty Years Ago

Originally Formed Under Captain Joseph V. Cunningham $n May, 1904

Thirty two years ago yesterday, Monday May 11, 1904, Troop of the First Pennsylvania Cavalry was mustered into service in the Court House. With Captain Jos. V. Cunningham the following officers were charged with the carrying on of the troop work. First Lieutenant Thos. C. Armstrong, Second Lieutenant William H. Dunlap, Lieutenant-Quartermaster Ralph M. Campbell. Lieutenant-Surgeon Allan W. Urmson. The first sergeant was Marshall McMillin.

About forty men were mustered in and up to the time of the Mexican Border disturbance in 1916 the troop was as much a social organization as is was military. In 1916 the troop went to the Mexican Border where it demonstrated such proficiency as to draw down the commendation of the regular army officers.

Early in 1917 the troop was again mustered into Federal service and sent to Camp Hancock, Augusta, Georgia. The calvary was disbanded there and the men placed in such outfits as the engineers, artillery, sanitary train, infantry, machine gun and quartermaster corps.

In 1920 Captain C. Lee Horner reorganized the troop and since then it has been in existence although part of the time as a mounted engineer unit. At the present time the troop is a unit of the 103rd Cavalry. For a time it was known as Troop A of the 104th cavalry but when the 103rd was organized it was given back its old troop designation.

NEW CASTLE CHAPTER HAS MOTHERS' PARTY

New Castle Chapter 105, O. E. S. of Mrs. Margaret Whieldon is worthy matron, held a Mothers' party after the regular lodge session on Monday evening, in the Cathedral which was a notable occasion.

Mrs. Charles Sankey presided at the business meeting in the absence of Mrs. Whieldon, who was stricken suddenly, by severe illness yesterday.

An unusually nice program was presented for the entertainment of the honored guests with Mrs. Bessie Coates Pitzer who was in charge of the program, extending a welcome to the Mothers. Miss Margaret Shaffer paid a lovely tribute to Mothers and Mrs. Arthur Lindsley gave the response in her usual gracious manner. Both toasts were original and informal in nature, which made them all the more delightful.

A fitting solo in keeping with the program, entitled "Songs My Mother Used to Sing" was rendered by Mrs. Paul Weller, attractive in a quaint yellow Colonial gown distinguished by a hoop shirt, and many ruffles.

Miss Elizabeth Glover who is always well received, gave a group of two readings one of which was entitled, "Mother Visits the School," and a request number, "In a Cafeteria."

As a climaxing feature, Junior Federation girls repeated an old-fashioned style revue, which was given for the entertainment of their own mothers recently.

Mrs. David W. Ritchie, Jr., announced each model, giving the history of the costume upon appearance. Modeling were: Sarah and Jo McGoun, Jane Allen, Elizabeth Gilfillan; KaQthryn Boston, Elsie McGeorge, Charlotte Barlett, Margaret Brown all the girls contributed much pleasure to the affair as the evening was hot and yet they performed remarkably well, in spite of stuffy velvets and hoop skirts. Mrs. Kathryn N. Allen furnished piano accompaniment.

Gifts were presented to the oldest and youngest mothers present, Mrs. E. C. Morrow and Mrs. Kathryn Nessle Allen receiving these respectively.

In the dining room later, a buffet lunch was served under the direction of Mrs. T. M. Shaffer and assistants, Mrs. Maude Montgomery, Mrs. Mayme Streib, Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. Louis McClung, and Mrs. Margaret Hammond. Mrs. Arthur Lindsley and Miss Margaret Shaffer poured. Decorations about the room were huge bowls of lilies and tulips in pastel shades, which made a lovely setting.

Charges Relief In Pennsylvania Political Racket

State Senator Reed Scores "Guffy-Lawrence-Earle Spoils System"

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 12—Charges that operation of state relief and the Works Progress Administration "have become scandalous rackets" in Pennsylvania were hurled at the Earle administration today by State Senator George L. Reed, Dauphin county Republican.

Speaking before the upper branch of the legislature as deliberations were resumed on the passage of a "Stop-Gap" resolution to provide emergency relief funds, Senator Reed asserted:

"I hurl back at the governor the blatant pretense by which he has tried to make the people of Pennsylvania believe that the exhaustion of $60,000,000 within a year, and the consequent necessity for this special session and more added taxation are the fault of the Republican majority in this chamber.

"I say to him, and to the people of this state who have to pay for this Guffey-Lawrence-Earle spoils system, that if the president's pledge had been worth the credit given it, and the relief and WPA in Pennsylvania were less than the scandalous rackets which the federal and state new deals have made them, the $60,000,000 relief appropriation made a year ago only would have been ample for the whole biennium, but would have been in excess of all honest requirements by from five to ten millions of dollars."

Pointing to increased relief costs, Reed said that with the advent of the Earle administration, "relief in this commonwealth was speedily converted into a political racket; and we all know that every factor of cost was being increased at a date all out of reason."

NEW CASTLE CHAPTER HAS MOTHERS' PARTY

New Castle Chapter 105, O. E. S. of Mrs. Margaret Whieldon is worthy matron, held a Mothers' party after the regular lodge session on Monday evening, in the Cathedral which was a notable occasion.

Mrs. Charles Sankey presided at the business meeting in the absence of Mrs. Whieldon, who was stricken suddenly, by severe illness yesterday.

An unusually nice program was presented for the entertainment of the honored guests with Mrs. Bessie Coates Pitzer who was in charge of the program, extending a welcome to the Mothers. Miss Margaret Shaffer paid a lovely tribute to Mothers and Mrs. Arthur Lindsley gave the response in her usual gracious manner. Both toasts were original and informal in nature, which made them all the more delightful.

A fitting solo in keeping with the program, entitled "Songs My Mother Used to Sing" was rendered by Mrs. Paul Weller, attractive in a quaint yellow Colonial gown distinguished by a hoop shirt, and many ruffles.

Miss Elizabeth Glover who is always well received, gave a group of two readings one of which was entitled, "Mother Visits the School," and a request number, "In a Cafeteria."

As a climaxing feature, Junior Federation girls repeated an old-fashioned style revue, which was given for the entertainment of their own mothers recently.

Mrs. David W. Ritchie, Jr., announced each model, giving the history of the costume upon appearance. Modeling were: Sarah and Jo McGoun, Jane Allen, Elizabeth Gillfillan; Kathryn Boston, Elsie McGeorge, Charlotte Barlett, Margaret Brown all the girls contributed much pleasure to the affair as the evening was hot and yet they performed remarkably well, in spite of stuffy velvets and hoop skirts. Mrs. Kathryn N. Allen furnished piano accompaniment.

Gifts were presented to the oldest and youngest mothers present, Mrs. E. C. Morrow and Mrs. Kathryn Nessle Allen receiving these respectively.

In the dining room later, a buffet lunch was served under the direction of Mrs. T. M. Shaffer and assistants, Mrs. Maude Montgomery, Mrs. Mayme Streib, Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. Louis McClung, and Mrs. Margaret Hammond. Mrs. Arthur Lindsley and Miss Margaret Shaffer poured. Decorations about the room were huge bowls of lilacs and tulips in pastel shades, which made a lovely setting.

Charges Relief In Pennsylvania Political Racket

State Senator Reed Scores "Guffy-Lawrence-Earle Spoils System"

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 12—Charges that operation of state relief and the Works Progress Administration "have become scandalous rackets" in Pennsylvania were hurled at the Earle administration today by State Senator George L. Reed, Dauphin county Republican.

Speaking before the upper branch of the legislature as deliberations were resumed on the passage of a "Stop-Gap" resolution to provide emergency relief funds, Senator Reed asserted:

"I hurl back at the governor the blatant pretense by which he has tried to make the people of Pennsylvania believe that the exhaustion of $60,000,000 within a year, and the consequent necessity for this special session and more added taxation are the fault of the Republican majority in this chamber.

"I say to him, and to the people of this state who have to pay for this Guffey-Lawrence-Earle spoils system, that if the president's pledge had been worth the credit given it, and the relief and WPA in Pennsylvania were less than the scandalous rackets which the federal and state new deals have made them, the $60,000,000 relief appropriation made a year ago only would have been ample for the whole biennium, but would have been in excess of all honest requirements by from five to ten millions of dollars."

Pointing to increased relief costs, Reed said that with the advent of the Earle administrtion, "relief in this commonwealth was speedily converted into a political racket; and we all know that every factor of cost was being increased at a date all out of reason."

Uncle Sam Will Make Defensive Diplomacy Move

President To Seek Senate Ratification Of London Naval Treaty

WILL FORCE HAND OF JAPAN AND ITALY

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 12.—America this week will make a defensive move on the checker-board of international diplomacy.

Behind President Roosevelt's announced intention to seek immediately senate ratification of the London Naval Treaty is an effort by the State Department to prevent the United States from being made the scapegoat by Japan or Italy for failure on their part to adhere to the new treaty.

The treaty, signed at London by the United States, Great Britain and France, represents the foundation on which it is hoped to build a new structure for the limitation of world navies.

Adherence to it by Japan and Italy is considered essential to its success.

The treaty provides that Britain shall invite these two powers to adhere before January 1st, 1937, when it is scheduled to become effective.

However, it will not go into effect on that date unless ratified by the U. S. senate at this session of congress.

Japan is known to be averse to adhering to it and is believed likely to jump at any opportunity which would provide a plausible excuse for not adhering.

The State Department therefore fears that if the senate fails to ratify it at this session, both Japan and Italy may use that as an excuse by asserting that as long as the United States, one of the principal signatories, has failed to ratify the treaty, there is no reason why they should hasten to adhere.

It is with a view to avoiding any such blame being placed on the United States that the State Department has induced President Roosevelt to send the treaty to the senate this week.

The president previously was inclined to let it go over until next session in order to avoid any danger of prolong the present session. However, the situation was explained to him both by the State and Navy Departments and he was persuaded to seek ratification at this session.

Known as the Treaty of London, 1936, the new agreement is designed to supplant the existing Washington and London Naval treaties, which expire the end of this year.

It limits the size of warships but not the number of them which may be possessed by the naval powers. Failure to reach an agreement on the number was due to Japan's refusal to enter any agreement which did not recognize her demand for the right to possess a fleet fully as powerful as either the American or British navies.

NEW GEOLOGY MAP

HARRISBURG, May 12.—A detailed study of the Brookville quadrangle has been completed by the Bureau of Topographic and Geological Survey of the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs. Some time will probably elapse before the publication of the results of this study is possible. However, maps showing the areal geology and the geologic structure of the rocks contoured on the top of the Vanport limestone and the top of the red rock may be consulted at the offices of the survey in Harrisburg.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

LIBRARY GUIDES MOTHERS

A FEW MONTHS ago I told you of an unusual contribution to young mothers and children by the librarian of Youngstown, O., C. W. Sumner. As you will recall, he established what is known as the mothers' room, the first of its kind in the world.

It is a large, homey room with comfortable furniture, where mothers or fathers may come alone or with their tots, reading to them there or borrowing books to take home to read to them. The experts in charge are trained also in child psychology, and have had outstanding success as teachers of young children.

On the tables are magazines for parents and for children. On the low shelves around the room are books especially selected to be read from by parents to children from the second year of their lives onward. There also is a section of books and pamphlets for young mothers, though few of these books are ever on the shelves, they are so popular.

Early in March a three-day institute was conducted at the library for mothers of young children, and your Uncle Dudley was employed to direct that institute. He has been announced as leader also for the next annual institute of this library. Besides, he has been retained as "psychological consultant of the Youngstown public library."

Teach Love Of Books

The philosophy underlying this mothers' room assumes that we can best teach the love of books by beginning with the baby. Accordingly mothers are encouraged to sing lullabies to the tiny infant in soft, gentle voices, while this infant is being cared for; encouraged to repeat nursery rhymes to him later and to read to him from beautifully illustrated rhymes and stories, this reading beginning in the second year and continuing on for several years after the child enters school.

The Youngstown public library has abandoned its story-telling hours and is turning attention to guiding mothers in effective ways of reading to their young children—a notable contribution to parent education.

The mothers' room has attracted wide attention, eliciting editorials from numerous newspapers and magazines. If you wish to have a program of the first annual institute for mothers in this library, together with a list of books in the mothers' room, you can get them at cost for a total of 25 cents sent to the Youngstown public library, Youngstown, O.

Auto Deaths Are Being Studied By Red Cross Force

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 12.—"Increasing traffic fatalities—more than 36,000 killed and 105,000 maimed last year—have become a national emergency of year round disaster proportions," Admiral Cary T. Grayson, national chairman of the American Red Cross, declared here yesterday.

This condition, Admiral Grayson said, makes the national convention which opened here yesterday with more than 2,000 delegates in attendance, the most significant in the 55 years' history of the national organization. The meeting is the first since the Red Cross began establishing highway first aid stations six months ago.

More than 3,000 first aid stations with trained volunteer workers have been designated in 30 states, Admiral Grayson said, and 1,000 of these highway first aid stations are already functioning.

Hoover To Speak At Philadelphia Thursday Night

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 12.—Former President Herbert Hoover conferred with political advisers and friends here Monday before entraining for Philadelphia where he will deliver an address Thursday evening.

Reticent concerning politics, interviewers were able to elicit little information from the former president.

He declared reaction against the policies of the present administration is mounting throughout the country, and said he was confident the Republican party would be victorious in November.

Uncle Sam Will Make Defensive Diplomacy Move

President To Seek Senate Ratification Of London Naval Treaty

WILL FORCE HAND OF JAPAN AND ITALY

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 12.—America this week will make a defensive move on the checker-board of international diplomacy.

Behind President Roosevelt's announced intention to seek immediately senate ratification of the London Naval Treaty is an effort by the State Department to prevent the United States from being made the scapegoat by Japan or Italy for failure on their part to adhere to the new treaty.

The treaty, signed at London by the United States, Great Britain and France, represents the foundation on which it is hoped to build a new structure for the limitation of world navies.

Adherence to it by Japan and Italy is considered essential to its success.

The treaty provides that Britain shall invite these two powers to adhere before January 1st, 1937, when it is scheduled to become effective.

However, it will not go into effect on that date unless ratified by the U. S. senate at this session of congress.

Japan is known to be averse to adhering to it and is believed likely to jump at any opportunity which would provide a plausible excuse for not adhering.

The State Department therefore fears that if the senate fails to ratify it at this session, both Japan and Italy may use that as an excuse by asserting that as long as the United States, one of the principal signatories, has failed to ratify the treaty, there is no reason why they should hasten to adhere.

It is with a view to avoiding any such blame being placed on the United States that the State Department has induced President Roosevelt to send the treaty to the senate this week.

The president previously was inclined to let it go over until next session in order to avoid any danger of prolong the present session. However, the situation was explained to him both by the State and Navy Departments and he was persuaded to seek ratification at this session.

Known as the Treaty of London, 1936, the new agreement is designed to supplant the existing Washington and London Naval treaties, which expire the end of this year.

It limits the size of warships but not the number of them which may be possessed by the naval powers. Failure to reach an agreement on the number was due to Japan's refusal to enter any agreement which did not recognize her demand for the right to possess a fleet fully as powerful as either the American or British navies.

NEW GEOLOGY MAP

HARRISBURG, May 12.—A detailed study of the Brookville quadrangle has been completed by the Bureau of Topographic and Geological Survey of the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs. Some time will probably elapse before the publication of the results of this study is possible. However, maps showing the areal geology and the geologic structure of the rocks contoured on the top of the Vanport limestone and the top of the red rock may be consulted at the offices of the survey in Harrisburg.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

LIBRARY GUIDES MOTHERS

A FEW MONTHS ago I told you of an unusual contribution to young mothers and children by the librarian of Youngstown, O., C. W. Sumner. As you will recall, he established what is known as the mothers' room, the first of its kind in the world.

It is a large, homey room with comfortable furniture, where mothers or fathers may come alone or with their tots, reading to them there or borrowing books to take home to read to them. The experts in charge are trained also in child psychology, and have had outstanding success as teachers of young children.

On the tables are magazines for parents and for children. On the low shelves around the room are books especially selected to be read from by parents to children from the second year of their lives onward. There also is a section of books and pamphlets for young mothers, though few of these books are ever on the shelves, they are so popular.

Early in March a three-day institute was conducted at the library for mothers of young children, and your Uncle Dudley was employed to direct that institute. He has been announced as leader also for the next annual institute of this library. Besides, he has been retained as "psychological consultant of the Youngstown public library."

Teach Love Of Books

The philosophy underlying this mothers' room assumes that we can best teach the love of books by beginning with the baby. Accordingly mothers are encouraged to sing lullabies to the tiny infant in soft, gentle voices, while this infant is being cared for; encouraged to repeat nursery rhymes to him later and to read to him from beautifully illustrated rhymes and stories, this reading beginning in the second year and continuing on for several years after the child enters school.

The Youngstown public library has abandoned its story-telling hours and is turning attention to guiding mothers in effective ways of reading to their young children—a notable contribution to parent education.

The mothers' room has attracted wide attention, eliciting editorials from numerous newspapers and magazines. If you wish to have a program of the first annual institute for mothers in this library, together with a list of books in the mothers' room, you can get them at cost for a total of 25 cents sent to the Youngstown public library, Youngstown, O.

Auto Deaths Are Being Studied By Red Cross Force

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 12.—"Increasing traffic fatalities—more than 36,000 killed and 105,000 maimed last year—have become a national emergency of year round disaster proportions," Admiral Cary T. Grayson, national chairman of the American Red Cross, declared here yesterday.

This condition, Admiral Grayson said, makes the national convention which opened here yesterday with more than 2,000 delegates in attendance, the most significant in the 55 years' history of the national organization. The meeting is the first since the Red Cross began establishinig highway first aid stations six months ago.

More than 3,000 first aid stations with trained volunteer workers have been designated in 30 states, Admiral Grayson said, and 1,000 of these highway first aid stations are already functioning.

Minor Accidents Reported In City

Two Store Fronts Are Damaged As Result Of Motor Vehicles Hitting Them

Front of the East Street market, corner of Neshannock avenue and East street; and the Nyra market West Long avenue, were damaged last night by motor vehicles crashing against the buildings, according to reports made to city police. No persons were injured in the accidents.

When the car driven by George F. Winter, Edison avenue, turned from East street, left into East Washington street a motorcycle driven by Clifford Cox, Ellwood City, R. D. 7, came from Water street toward East street.

Winter claims his auto did not strike the motorcycle and Cox claims the car did, just enough to cause him to lose control of the cycle which ran over the curb in front of Paisley's pharmacy then struck the East Street market front, damaging it.

The accident occurred at 7:30 p. m.

About midnight in West Long avenue, a Plymouth coupe was alleged to have struck the parked car of William Benzyck, Arlington avenue, after which it ran over the curb and struck the Nyra market.

The driver removed the keys from the Plymouth, according to the police report. He left the scene of the accident and is being hunted, according to police.

Garden Forum Sponsors Countrywide Tree Planting

At the first regular meeting of the Garden Forum of Lawrence County Area held Monday evening, in the North street school the group assembled sponsored the continuous planting of cercis canadensis, commonly known as Red Bud or Judas Tree. The trees will be planted throughout the city of New Castle and Lawrence county.

The Forum seeks to enlist the interest of individuals, schools, or college classes, clubs and other organizations in this project, with a view to making this community as well known for its Red Bud as Washington, our national capital, is for its Cherry trees which attract so many tourists at blossom time. Already, several hundred have been ordered.

This planting is the first local movement in co-operation with the tree planting program of the commission of the Sesqui-Centennial of the Constitution of the United States. Millions of trees will be planted throughout the country, since almost any event in connection with the Sesqui Centennial will lend itself to individual or group tree planting on public grounds.

Another splendid project proposed by the East Side Garden Club members who have sponsored the movement in their group was also sponsored by the Forum. It is entitled "Bell Your Cat" and warns our local birds of danger, at the same time protecting cats from cruel treatment. It is reported that children of Oak street school have co-operated to the extent of belling 145 cats.

Following the business program, slides of medicinal trees were displayed. Mrs. William Howley, assisted by Mrs. W. A. Hoffmaster, presided, and the group enjoyed discussions in which several members took part.

Mrs. Alan Ingals, demonstrated the construction of a lead bowl (flower container) and also a flower holder. Following this interesting display, it was announced that there were two contestants for the attendance award. East Side and East Brook Garden clubs. In the drawing to decide, East Side Garden club was successful.

The meeting adjourned with the announcement that all who wish to be included in the first purchase of Redbuds must report to Mrs. W. C. Eckenroud, not later than May 15.

Two selections were rendered by a group of L. T. L. girls, Mary Louise Eddy, Ruth McEwen, Agnes Baker, Peggy Roland and Jean Perro. A "white ribbon" service followed in which Eileen Eakin, Jean Perro, Agnes Baker and Billy Brown participated. The Temperance Light Bearers of the Union, a newly organized department, has at present nine members.

Garden Forum Sponsors Countrywide Tree Planting

At the first regular meeting of the Garden Forum of Lawrence County Area held Monday evening, in the North street school the group assembled sponsored the continuous planting of cercis canadensis, commonly known as Red Bud or Judas Tree. The trees will be planted throughout the city of New Castle and Lawrence county.

The Forum seeks to enlist the interest of individuals, schools, or college classes, clubs and other organizations in this project, with a view to making this community as well known for its Red Bud as Washington, our national capital, is for its Cherry trees which attract so many tourists at blossom time. Already, several hundred have been ordered.

This planting is the first local movement in co-operation with the tree planting program of the commission of the Sesqui-Centennial of the Constitution of the United States. Millions of trees will be planted throughout the country, since almost any event in connection with the Sesqui Centennial will lend itself to individual or group tree planting on public grounds.

Another splendid project proposed by the East Side Garden Club members who have sponsored the movement in their group was also sponsored by the Forum. It is entitled "Bell Your Cat" and warns our local birds of danger, at the same time protecting cats from cruel treatment. It is reported that children of Oak street school have co-operated to the extent of belling 145 cats.

Following the business program, slides of medicinal trees were displayed. Mrs. William Howley, assisted by Mrs. W. A. Hoffmaster, presided, and the group enjoyed discussions in which several members took part.

Mrs. Alan Ingals, demonstrated the construction of a lead bowl (flower container) and also a flower holder. Following this interesting display, it was announced that there were two contestants for the attendance award. East Side and East Brook Garden clubs. In the drawing to decide, East Side Garden club was successful.

The meeting adjourned with the announcement that all who wish to be included in the first purchase of Redbuds must report to Mrs. W. C. Eckenroad, not later than May 15.

T. L. B. Party

Beautiful and impressive was the program of the Mother's and the Temperance Light Bearers' party given in the Reformed Presbyterian church on Oak street, Saturday afternoon. Much credit is due Mrs. James C. Pherson, who directed the T. L. B. work for the Frances Willard Union of the W. C. T. U.

The program was opened by group singing of "America." The past president of the union, Mrs. T. A. Preston, led the prayer. This was followed by greetings and welcome period.

Two selections were rendered by a group of L. T. L. girls, Mary Louise Eddy, Ruth McEwen, Agnes Baker, Peggy Roland and Jean Perro. A "white ribbon" service followed in which Eileen Eakin, Jean Perro, Agnes Baker and Billy Brown participated. The Temperance Light Bearers of the Union, a newly organized department, has at present nine members.

Consecration prayer was offered by Mrs. Grant Fisher. Mrs. W. G. Wilkins, county president of the W. C. T. U. spoke on "Motherhood and Child Training." A song by the L. T. L. group ended the program. A social period followed during which the officers of the Frances Willard Union served refreshments.

Hoover Disturbs Party Harmony

Evident Efforts To Dictate Is Worrying Republican Party Leaders

FEAR SCENE AT BIG CONVENTION

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S street

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, May 12—G. O. P. managers have no notion of renominating former President Hoover, nor have they any idea that he will be renominated against their wishes.

But he worries them, for all that.

No, he cannot be renominated, but he can create a "scene" if he insists on trying, and they do not want a "scene".

The Democrats would not object to a moderate amount of excitement to brighten up their Philadelphia convention, which promises to be pretty flat. The Republicans, however, are desirous of all the harmony they can get. And it will not look very harmonious if they are compelled to be rough with the titular leader of their party to keep him quiet.

TRY TO DICTATE?

What the G. O. P.'s real bosses wish to heaven is that the Palo Altonian would announce that he "doesn't choose to run" again.

Yet they are mightily suspicious that he has no intention of making such an announcement, or he would have done it long before this, they believe. Or, even if he doesn't plan to run again, they are fearful that he will try to dictate the nomination of someone other than himself—and the Republican platform, too. If he does they propose to choke him off, but, as previously remarked, it inevitably will be at the expense of a "scene". They were hopeful that the California primaries would convince him that he was a back number. Those primaries somewhat strengthened him instead.

GENERALLY OPPOSED

G. O. P. conservatives and liberals alike are anti-Hooverian.

The liberals oppose him on general principles.

The conservatives are sure he could not be elected anyway, and they want a candidate who, they think, may be able to win. Not all of them would favor him, for that matter, if they thought he could win. It will be recalled that some of their number desperately fought his nomination in 1928.

It is his potential nuisance value which is so high.

NOT G. O. P. ENOUGH?

The irony of the situation lies in the fact that many G. O. P.-ites always have considered Hoover a better Democrat than a Republican.

He was something of a Democratic "possibility" for the presidential nomination in 1920. For example, he verged on being a free trader; was a low tariff advocate at least. The Smoot-Hawley tariff law notoriously was passed against his judgment.

When he was an aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination in early 1928, the then Senator James E. Watson of Indiana was an aspirant also.

I was "rounding up" presidential "possibilities" at the time.

Calling on Senator Watson in due course, I asked, "Well, why are your qualifications superior to Secretary Hoover's?" (Hoover was secretary of commerce then.)

"The outstanding one," said the senator, "is that I'm a Republican."

DESIGNATIONS FADE

Today:

Is former President Hoover a Democrat, "gumming up" the chances of a Republican party, which now has become Democratic?—states' rights, et cetera.

And is President Roosevelt a Republican (a Democrat, so called), fighting for centralization?

And what is Governor Alf M. Landon, who, presumably, will get the nominal Republican nomination? An old-time Democrat? Or an old-time Republican? Or mixed? And what will he be opposing, if nominated?

It is enough to make the politico-economic brain reel.

Increase Shown In New Building

Figures For March Show It Three Times As Great As Last Year

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 12. — Increased building construction is indicated by department of labor and industry reports revealing March building activities in 88 municipalities this year were three times as extensive as during the corresponding month of last year.

With 2,177 operations estimated to cost $5,128,000, the March seasonal gain in construction was regarded as far in excess of the usual rise.

"Further proof of an intrinsic improvement in the building industry," the department report pointed out, "was shown by the 86 per cent higher value of construction in March, 1936, as compared with March, 1935. Increased expenditures for the current month can hardly be attributed to flood construction which will later be shown largely in the nature of additions, alterations and repairs. The total gain for March, 1936, over 1935, was brought about by a 724 per cent rise in new non-residental buildings and an 85 per cent increase in the construction of dwellings."

Analysis of the building permit reports disclosed further that the average cost of 236 non-residential buildings started last month was 7,871, four times the March, 1935, average of $1,790. Factory construction costs showed the only appreciable decrease since last year, but this decrease was offset by large gains in school, church, institutional, public building and store construction.

Largest of the individual projects noted by the department were a $402,000 school in Philadelphia, a $359,000 school in Reading and a $135,000 school in Radnor township. In Lower Merion township 17 single-home projects, to cost $224,000 were started while 11 similar projects, to cost $183,000, were begun in Mt. Lebanon township.

Quintuplets Near Second Birthday

By GRACE TROY
International News Service
Special Correspondent

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 12.—Two years old and never been spanked.

That's the record of the Dionne quints, who will celebrate their second birthday on May 28.

Not that they need it, either. Occasionally they show a strain of mischief but in the main, Judge J. A. Valin, chairman of the quints' board of guardians, told the writer today, they are the best behaved babies in Canada.

"Someone," I told Judge Valin "recently suggested a little spanking now and then would be good for the babies. How about it?"

"Absolutely unnecessary," was the reply. "Not only do they not need spanking but we feel that if they are not spanked they will tend to be more genteel."

The quints, the retired jurist disclosed, are now worth about $200,000 in their own right. Most of that estate, he said, has been created in the past year.

"I did not think it possible to amass that sum in a year," Judge Valin said, "but it is true. And it's all due to their own charm."

The world's most famous babies are learning to dance, the guardian added.

"They must have music now," he said, "so last week a player piano was sent to the hospital. Dr. Dafoe told me there was plenty of excitement when it arrived. Annette toddled over, touched a key, and at once four other little heads were cocked toward the instrument and there was a piano quintet."

Why You Should Never Cut a Corn

If you are troubled with corns or callouses, do not run the risk of blood poison by paring them. Statistics show that many infections have occurred from this seemingly innocent practice of paring corns.

Simply go to your druggists and get some Dee-Mint, rub a little on any painful corn or callous. The pain promptly disappears and in a short time the corn or callous will loosen and lift off easily—root and all—leaving the surrounding skin in a healthy normal condition.

This, together with the fact that Dee-Mint quickly eases such troubles as sore, tired aching, puffed or burning feet and makes them cool, easy and comfortable, is probably the reason for the hearty endorsement given it by druggists.

To rid one's feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes or painful callouses in such a pleasant and safe way, makes it seem the height of folly for anyone to have a corn and people are warned to step it.

Quintuplets Near Second Birthday

By GRACE TROY
International News Service
Special Correspondent

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 12.—Two years old and never been spanked.

That's the record of the Dionne quints, who will celebrate their second birthday on May 28.

Not that they need it, either. Occasionally they show a strain of mischief but in the main, Judge J. A. Valin, chairman of the quints' board of guardians, told the writer today, they are the best behaved babies in Canada.

"Someone," I told Judge Valin "recently suggested a little spanking now and then would be good for the babies. How about it?"

"Absolutely unnecessary," was the reply. "Not only do they not need spanking but we feel that if they are not spanked they will tend to be more genteel."

The quints, the retired jurist disclosed, are now worth about $200,000 in their own right. Most of that estate, he said, has been created in the past year.

"I did not think it possible to amass that sum in a year," Judge Valin said, "but it is true. And it's all due to their own charm."

The world's most famous babies are learning to dance, the guardian added.

"They must have music now," he said, "so last week a player piano was sent to the hospital. Dr. Dafoe told me there was plenty of excitement when it arrived. Annette toddled over, touched a key, and at once four other little heads were cocked toward the instrument and there was a piano quintet."

Why You Should Never Cut a Corn

If you are troubled with corns or callouses, do not run the risk of blood poison by paring them. Statistics show that many infections have occurred from this seemingly innocent practice of paring corns.

Simply go to your druggists and get some Ice-Mint, rub a little on any painful corn or callous. The pain promptly disappears and in a short time the corn or callous will loosen and lift off easily—root and all—leaving the surrounding skin in a healthy normal condition.

This, together with the fact that Ice-Mint quickly eases such troubles as sore, tired aching, puffed or burning feet and makes them cool, easy and comfortable, is probably the reason for the hearty endorsement given it by druggists.

To rid one's feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes or painful callouses in such a pleasant and safe way, makes it seem the height of folly for anyone to pare a corn and people are warned to stop it.

IT'S MORE FUN THAN A CIRCUS • to drive a car that's in tip-top condition. And the way to keep your car in top condition is to use Atlantic White Flash—Atlantic Motor Oil—and Atlantic Lubrication. These are the products which took the six Toms River Test Cars 100,000 miles apiece, without carbon removal or repairs to a single lubricated engine part . . . and kept those automobiles in essentially new-car condition for that entire distance! Remember to insist on — Atlantic.

To Watch Votes Of 'Lame Ducks'

They Will Be Important During Special Legislative Session

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 12—Political observers are watching with interest the part that will be played in the current emergency session of the general assembly by state senators and representatives now serving their last legislative terms.

With several subjects to come before the session regarded as politically controversial, this group may provide a powerful balance sufficiently strong to affect materially the course of administration proposals in the special session. How they will vote constitutes one of the leading questions of the moment on Capitol hill.

The group consists of 51 legislators, comprising 47 representatives and four senators. Of these, 12 are "Lame Ducks," defeated in the recent primaries for re-nomination to office, and 39 other members who did not seek re-nomination for one reason or another.

As a result of their positions in the general assembly, these legislators can vote as they see fit. The November elections mean nothing to them, and what they do during the session can be done without fear of political reactions or reprisals from either their organizations or their constituents.

Their votes will be particularly important during the current session because of threatened deadlocks on several subjects. Unemployment relief, the principal reason for the emergency session, observers are generally agreed, will prove a difficult problem to solve in the legislature and Democrats and Republicans have already split wide apart on appropriation estimates.

The Democratic majority in the house, moreover, is threatened by internal dissention and the organization is frankly anticipating some difficulty in keeping its entire forces lined up, while the devision of the lower chamber is the same as last year—117 Democrats, 89 Republicans and two Socialists—the Democrats will have no easy task in holding their lines for the necessary 105 votes in approving house bills if their "questionable" party members desert the organization.

Difficulties experienced by the Democratic organization in controlling the house majority in the last session, observers believe, will be even greater during the present session. Those who will not return to legislative action next year, and those who won nominations without organization support will provide the party with a substantial group of independents.

Similar problems confront the organization in the senate, although the Democratic membership is closer to its goal of control, on a numerical basis, than it has been in years. The lineup, as it now stands, is 29 Republicans to 21 Democrats. At least one Republican member of the upper chamber, however, Senator William H. Clark, of Chester county, is not expected to sit during the session.

Mr. and Mrs. John Zamerowski and their son Anthony, on the first floor, escaped. Bartosik was blinded by the smoke as he staggered for the stairway and although they made repeated attempts, Zamerowski and his son were unable to reach the man.

High Rating Is Given To Holcad

Associated Collegiate Press Puts Westminster Publication On High Standard

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, May 12—The Holcad, Westminster student paper, in its fifty-third year of publication received its highest rating in the history of the college this year from the Associated Collegiate Press, with headquarters at the University of Minnesota.

First Class rating was given the Holcad with 765 points out of a possible 1000, only 15 points short of All-American rating. Standards have been raised so rapidly by the A. C. P. that the requirements for a "First class rating" this year are equivalent to what All-American ratings were last year.

Since the Holcad is only a weekly paper, in competition with many large university and college dailies and semi-weeklies, the rating is unusually high. Very few weeklies achieve the First-class rating.

During the past year, Avalon LeMonte, Mt. Lebanon junior, has been editor-in-chief of the Holcad; and has been elected to edit the paper during his senior year.

The rating is made on the basis of the following points: news values and sources; news writing and editing; headlines, typography, and make-up; and department pages and special features.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police activities during the month of April brought the city treasury $481.15, according to a report submitted by Mayor Charles E. McGrath to council at their meeting Monday.

Council reported favorably from committee yesterday a bill which provides for an appropriation of $2,000, to pay the interest and taxes up to November 1, on funding bonds, issue of 1936.

City officials have received a communication from the internal revenue department stating that there is no tax on parking or greens fees at municipal golf courses.

During the month of April the city of New Castle through Paul Marakas collected $5,333.41 in delinquent taxes. Another report stated that from May 1 to May 8, inclusive, Marakas also collected $173.00.

City officials reported today that the proper authorities have executed a lease for the use of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company's "wire nail" mill property here. The company has been made exempt of taxes in lieu of rent.

City officials have refused to enter a protest as advocated by an oil company against the proposal that an increase of tax on gasoline be imposed. They refused, it was stated, because the matter is not a city issue.

When the Boy Scouts hold their contest at Cunningham park many citizens who have never visited the plot will be able to see some of the park land the city owns. Improvements started there years ago have been finished.

Street paving here will start as soon as the WPA secures a 10 ton roller. City officials are ready to proceed immediately with the work. They ascribe the delay to the failure of the WPA to secure and put a roller into operation.

Director of finance J. L. Fink stated yesterday that as fast as short term notes for any part of the $100,000 borrowed fall due, they are met. The amount was borrowed in January by the city to pay current operating expenses.

Ray Showalter, lieutenant of detectives, is arranging a set-up of his system of fingerprint files and photographs at the city detectives bureau. In addition he has been directing detectives in regard to investigations.

It is probable that council soon will be compelled to install water softeners in the water system at Sylvan heights. Calcium magnesia deposits in the pipes has caused some trouble there, council has been told.

City Engineer Glenn R. Throop has informed council that the forms for the casting of curbs along streets which are to be paved by WPA labor, have arrived. Sand and cement for the cartways also have been ordered, he stated.

GRANGERS GIVE TO FLOOD RELIEF FUND

Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, is in receipt of a check for $50 from the Lawrence County Granges, as their contribution to the flood relief fund raised for the National Red Cross, by the Lawrence County Chapter.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police activities during the month of April brought the city treasury $481.15, according to a report submitted by Mayor Charles E. McGrath to council at their meeting Monday.

Council reported favorably from committee yesterday a bill which provides for an appropriation of $2,000, to pay the interest and taxes up to November 1, on funding bonds, issue of 1936.

City officials have received a communication from the internal revenue department stating that there is no tax on parking or greens fees at municipal golf courses.

During the month of April the city of New Castle through Paul Marakas collected $5,333.41, in delinquent taxes. Another report stated that from May 1 to May 8, inclusive, Marakas also collected $173.00.

City officials reported today that the proper authorities have executed a lease for the use of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company's "wire nail" mill property here. The company has been made exempt of taxes in lieu of rent.

City officials have refused to enter a protest as advocated by an oil company against the proposal that an increase of tax on gasoline be imposed. They refused, it was stated, because the matter is not a city issue.

When the Boy Scouts hold their contest at Cunningham park many citizens who have never visited the plot will be able to see some of the park land the city owns. Improvements started there years ago have been finished.

Street paving here will start as soon as the WPA secures a 10 ton roller. City officials are ready to proceed immediately with the work. They ascribe the delay to the failure of the WPA to secure and put a roller into operation.

Director of finance J. L. Fink stated yesterday that as fast as short term notes for any part of the $100,000 borrowed fall due, they are met. The amount was borrowed in January by the city to pay current operating expenses.

Ray Showalter, lieutenant of detectives, is arranging a set-up of his system of fingerprint files and photographs at the city detectives bureau. In addition he has been directing detectives in regard to investigations.

It is probable that council soon will be compelled to install water softeners in the water system at Sylvan heights. Calcium magnesia deposits in the pipes has caused some trouble there, council has been told.

City Engineer Glenn R. Throop has informed council that the forms for the casting of curbs along streets which are to be paved by WPA labor, have arrived. Sand and cement for the cartways also have been ordered, he stated.

Mass Drive For Flood Control Being Planned

Big Delegation From Tri-State District May Go To Washington

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 12—Mobilization of a delegation of men and women to descend on Washington and demand immediate flood control action from congress went rapidly forward today under the sponsorship of the tri-state authority, the citizens committee on flood control and the Allegheny county league of women voters.

Urging 200 nearby communities to send representatives along, leaders of the mobilization expressed the hope as many as 500 will join in the mass drive.

March Is Urged

State Senator William B. Rodgers, president of the tri-state authority, and William P. Witherow, chairman of the citizens committee, issued a joint statement urging support of the Washington march because of rumors congress will adjourn without taking flood control action.

Local flood control leaders received assurance today from Sen. Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas, Democratic flood leader,

That the $360,000,000 flood control bill, already passed by the house, will be called for debate this week.

Cornelius D. Scully, president of Pittsburgh city council, will address a flood control mass meeting tomorrow night at Johnstown, one of the hardest hit cities in the St. Patrick's Day flood it was announced here.

SEED BARGAINS

On Court House Hill

County commissioners were in the northern part of the county yesterday looking over bridges to determine if any of them are in need of repairs. The greater part of the bridges of the county have been taken over by the state.

Sixty-seven instruments of all kinds were entered at the register and recorder's office last week. Of this number ten were mortgages, and thirty-six were deeds. Most of the deeds were for properties that had been sold at sheriff sale.

Under the will of the late Nancy Axe of New Wilmington, $200 is left to the United Presbyterian church of Greenfield, Mercer county. The Lebanon Cemetery Association, connected with the same church, is left $200 for upkeep. A bequest of $1,000 is made to a grand-nephew, George Dean Axe, and $200 to a grand-niece, Gladys Banks. The residue of the estate is left to a sister, Sarah Ann Axe of New Wilmington. Attorney J. Genn Berry is named as executor.

Notes of testimony have been filed by Stenographer Rowland in the case of E. A. McConahy against Nicholas Frasso in which an application for a new trial has been made. McConahy sued Frasso for keeping and training a race horse. The jury awarded him $238.50. The defendant thought the verdict too much and asked for a new trial.

In the case of the commonwealth against Wilhelm Rether, in which Rether asked that an order of court directing him to pay $30 per month for the support of his wife and child, be reduced, Mrs. Julia Rether has filed an answer to a rule in which she objects of any reduction and asks that the allowance be increased. She takes exception to Rether's allegation that he is unable to pay, citing the fact that he owns a large farm upon which there is very little indebtedness.

County commissioners have decided to paper court room No. 1 and to make some other repairs about the court house. There is some loose plaster on court room No. 1 and workmen started to remove it today. The court room has not been papered for many years. About two years ago some slate blew off the roof and the water came through and damaged the ceiling in several places. The former county commissioners succeeded in getting some ceiling paper like it and patching it, but the new paper did not match very well with the old, thus giving a crazy-quilt effect to the ceiling. Some very high trestles have to be used by the workmen in papering the ceiling.

The Lawrence Savings and Trust company, trustee for Thomas J. Johnson, have filed a petition to secure possession of a property which was sold as that of Belle E. Zimmerman and Charles N. Kirker. The property is located in West Terrace in Union township. It is claimed that Charles N. Kirker, who is in possession has been notified of the sale but has refused to vacate. A citation was issued on him requiring an answer inside of fifteen days.

County commissioners have appointed Elmer Mannewal of Bessemer, as property assessor and registering assessor of the borough. The position has been held by Rev. Engle, who was forced to resign on account of ill health. Borough residents presented a petition in which they asked for Mannewal's appointment.

So far no answers have been filed at the prothonotary's office to the quo warranto proceedings instituted against three clubs of this city and one of Ellwood City. If no answers are filed the charters are likely to be annulled. If answers are filed there will be a hearing before the court.

GUNS WORK TWO WAYS

—And, Jim Found, There Are Often Two Ways of Doing the Same Thing.

McClure Fiction

By Alice Douglas Kelly

"Oh, yes you'll marry her, you big flatfoot," he screamed.

Illustrated by SKRENDA

JEANIE said: "Come to order." But she said it perfunctorily. She knew that there were some who would obey and some who wouldn't. It was that kind of a school, Ward 14, down in the heart of the mill district. The neighborhood was a devil's broth of hideous poverty, with a scum of young criminality rising continually to the surface.

Jeanie liked her job. There was so much more to it than just teaching. She liked to know that the right teacher down there could direct her hard-boiled disillusioned pupils into paths of decency they had never dreamed of before, and she gave hours of her time to the problems of her charges.

Jeanie said again: "Come to order." And this time her sea blue eyes were a touch frosty and her soft voice edged. The better boys were quiet. Tony Captiva laughed raucously and shuffled his feet. She said:

"Tony, I'm making you monitor this week. Collect the pencils for sharpening, please, and water the plants before study period."

This was heresy of Jeanie's own peculiar sort. Monitorships were rewards of virtue and virtue was certainly not in Tony. But Jeanie knew all about Tony's home and she knew also that adolescents have strange and anti-social ways of mending hurts to their self-respect. A monitor was important and according to Jeanie, Tony needed badly to feel important. It worked, as most of her methods did. She had no further trouble with Tony that day.

She did have trouble, to her great distress, with her star pupil Cesco Terra. He had been her wistful dark-eyed slave; had kept rules and had even kept clean which wasn't always easy in Ward 14. But for a week or two now he had slackened noticeably. He was dirty and unkempt and his lessons were unprepared. Worse, he had been caught stealing from the children's lunch boxes and once a penny from Jeanie's own purse. When reproved he was alternately insolent and sullen.

Jeanie gave her usual serious thought to the case. There was school Number 28 for problem children. Her class was overcrowded, she knew that. And often a change of schools stimulated interest and renewed effort. But somehow her influence on Cesco had seemed a personal thing and, the move suggested to him, he had protested sharply. "No, no. Don' send me way, Miss Jeanie." Still, the wrong turning was swiftly and almost imperceptibly taken by children just like Cesco and Jeanie couldn't let that happen without a struggle.

She thought of hunger, naturally, and conferred with Miss Talbot who was go-between for the schools and the Relief organization. Miss Talbot reassured her.

"There's nothing like that," she said. "The boy lives with an older brother who works. There's always plenty of money. The older boy seems really fond of Cesco. And then there's a sister in law who cares for them. Not a bad home if you don't look too closely. And we daren't. Funds have to be stretched so far we're glad to find any child who doesn't need free lunches and any household that's self-supporting."

So that was that. "Have you got your lessons to-day?" Jeanie asked Cesco pleasantly.

"Nope," Cesco answered insolently. His big, encircled eyes didn't meet hers. He was very thin and under the natural brown of his skin there was an odd bluish tinge.

"Come to my desk at recess," Jeanie said gently. "I want to talk to you."

But at recess Jim Donovan, lieutenant of police, came to her desk instead and she forgot about Cesco. Jim looked at her with embarrassing ardor in his grey Irish eyes. "You look like the dawn on the sea," he told her poetically.

Jeanie blushed. "I thought you were prowling Ward 3," she said. "How come you're over here?"

"Got transferred today," Jim told her. They been having a heck of a lot of trouble down here; some of your pets maybe," he grinned at the flash in her eyes. "Anyways," he went on, "some young punks. Arson, robbery, assault. I've been elected to stop it."

"I suppose you will," Jeanie agreed bitterly. "And send those poor children to prison. I tell you, Jim, that isn't what will make future bread lines shorter. You've got to give them different ideals. Fill their stomachs, their minds and their hearts so they can understand . . ." She broke off abruptly.

JUST outside the schoolroom there were shrieks of anguish and roars of rage which rose above the sound of scufflings and blows. Jeanie and Jim reached the door in short order. Outside there were flailing legs and arms and a scattering of lunch boxes and books. At first Jeanie was not greatly alarmed. Then she heard Jim swear and saw him start forward. She gasped. There was a man sized gun in a grimy hand which was sticking out of the melée.

The big policeman sorted out the contestants and lifted the gunman to his feet. It was Cesco!

Jim knew his own limitations. He said to Jeanie, "Make 'em talk."

Jeanie said: "Abie, why were you and Cesco fighting?"

Abie sniffled. "He stole from my lunch a sandwich and a pickle," he explained. "By me that's not so bad only the whiles he takes also the cake. So I hit him."

Jeanie looked at the little boy's rapidly closing eye and swelling nose and her lips twitched in spite of herself. "I'm afraid he hit you, too," she sympathized. She turned to Cesco. "Why did you do it?" she asked. "Were you hungry? doesn't your brother Carlo take care of you?"

Cesco's eyes flashed and his dark head went up proudly. "For sure he takes care," he answered. "A' course I ain't never hungry!" And he promptly fainted away. In the principal's office Cesco made short work of a bowl of soup and a hunk of bread.

"You might as well tell the truth," Jeanie said firmly. "The doctor says you must be starving, and we'll have to investigate if you don't tell us. Be a good boy and save us trouble."

Cesco looked at her. "Do I got to?" he asked with despair.

Jeanie patted his scrawny arm. "Yes," she said. "You'll feel better when you have. Where's your brother?"

"In stir," Cesco said dully.

Jeanie grew white while Cesco told his story. He had no illusions and believed in no pretty fictions about life. There were few reserves in Ward 14. When his brother was sent to the penitentiary for illegal practices Cesco was to have been taken to a Home but he ran away and had been living in holes and corners, starving and miserable.

JIM said with a kind of gruff kindliness, "It's tough, kid, but all of us get socks. You forget it. Miss Jeanie'll fix you up. And here, hand over that gun."

Cesco looked obstinate. "It's Carlo's," he said.

"Can't help it," Jim answered. "Can't carry a gun, kid. Give it here."

Cesco looked at Miss Jeanie. "Do I got to?" he asked.

The helplessness of the repeated question went to Jeanie's heart. "Let me keep it for him, Jim," she said. "I've got a permit on account of the neighborhood. Let me keep it for you, Cesco."

Cesco reluctantly gave in. Jim turned to Jeanie. "You come out with me tonight," he ordered rather than suggested. "You need cheering up. You'll go nuts if you teach here much longer."

At the end of the evening Jim said, "I love you so much you'd think I wasn't right in the head and how you can keep a man suffering like this and you so tender hearted is more than I can see."

Jeanie slipped a soft hand into his big warm paw. "I don't want you to suffer, Jimmie," she said. "But I can't marry a policeman."

"There's no finer job," Jim said simply.

"I know," Jeanie spoke a trifle helplessly. It wasn't easy to refuse Jim anything. There was something about him, and Jeanie was lonely too. Life wasn't much fun in Ward 14 and Jim was comforting. She said reluctantly: "You see we'd clash so. These boys—they're crooks to you, but to me, well— I want to make them material for a new nation. As they are, they'll be the unemployed, the charity cases of the future. I want to change them. Give them a chance. That sounds stuffy, I know," she added, "but mothers are stuffy about their children; they have to be. And these kids," she smiled—a lovely smile, "are my children."

"An' you an' the other teachers do a fine work among them," Jim conceded instantly. "But a lot of 'em will end in the pen for all you can do an' it's my duty to see they get what's comin' to them. Good Lord, darlin', I'm no brute. I like kids as well as the next man."

AFTER a while they quarrelled and when Jim took her home he said sadly, "I'll not be troublin' you again, Jeanie."

His big shoulders sagged and suddenly it seemed absurd for him to go to his lonely room and she to hers. Jeanie called quickly, "Jim, come back."

He reached her in one long step and took her in his arms.

They sent Cesco to the school for problem children. He was heartbroken. He said, "But I got nobody there."

That moved Jeanie to tears but she knew the teachers were a kindly, intelligent group who could properly direct him and she told herself over and over again, "He'll have a better chance there." He was boarded in a nice family and he had the free hot lunch at school. After the first week he began to gain weight and his work was good. Then for a time, Jeanie forgot him. Jim filled her world.

The second month she began to get bad reports of her ex-pupil. He seemed unhappy, they said; he was playing truant and slackening up generally. Jeanie sent for him and her heart bled. He looked wan and sick. He said, "I like I come back with you."

But once transferred it was beyond Jeanie's power to get him back except for cause and his place had been twice filled. She said. "Aren't they good to you, Cesco? You must try to get on."

He said. "Sure they're all right. Sure I try. But I can talk with you."

Still he didn't talk much and when he left he said. "Miss Jeanie, you been good to me. I want you should know I know it."

This was unlike Cesco and Jeanie was amazed. She said, "Why you're my friend, Cesco, my little brother. People like to do things for their friends."

"An' their brothers," Cesco said.

Jeanie said. "Yes," then remembered that this might be a sore subject. She said hesitantly. "Have you visited Carlo?"

Cesco nodded. "Miss Talbot took me up," he answered.

Jeanie patted his shoulder affectionately. "Well, you must be brave," she said inadequately. "Carlo—surely he'd want you to be brave."

"Sure; he told me what to do," Cesco said.

TWO days later Jeanie realized that Cesco's last conversation with her had been his way of saying good-bye. He disappeared off the face of the earth. So also did Carlo's gun. When Jeanie discovered that it had disappeared from her desk presumably on the day of Cesco's visit, she was frantic. She notified all the authorities that he was gone and she grieved over him sincerely. But she was overworked and tired; there was nothing more she could do and all the other children needed her. Weeks passed by and she began to think that poor little Cesco was just another failure.

Then he came back. Not to school, and not to his boarding home, but late at night to Jeanie's one room apartment. She answered his desperate knocking and almost screamed when he fell into her arms. He was white and ragged and his brother's gun was in his hand.

He said, "Hide me quick, Miss Jeanie. The cops, they're after me."

"But why. . ." Jeanie asked "Oh, you poor boy!"

"Carlo made me . . . Jeeze, Miss Jeanie, I didn't want to pull no stick-ups nor nothing, but he said his gang'd get you sure if I didn't," Cesco explained. An' then, what the hell! he's my brother." He stopped and his labored breathing could be heard through the room.

"Don't let 'em get me," he begged presently. "They'd send me to the reform school. I couldn't take it, Miss Jeanie. I heard the boys talkin' . . . God!"

That was for the heavy footstep on the stair outside. Like lightning Jeanie shoved the boy into the depths of her clothes closet. "I won't let them get you," she said.

Jeanie had never broken a promise. Just before she closed the door Cesco smiled at her with perfect trust.

Jim was outside. He called: "That kid Cesco shot a guy."

Jeanie began to shake. "What . . ." she began.

Jim said. "He didn't mean to. He stuck him up and the guy went to grab the gun and it went off. He's not much hurt but the gun and the stick-up make it bad for the kid. He's been in these gang robberies. Some of the boys squealed. They said he was only a spotter but a gang's a gang."

Jeanie said, "He did it to get money for his brother. His brother threatened him."

Jim nodded. "That'll help. I'll put in a word for him. Where is he? I seen him come in the building."

Jeanie asked, "Will he go to the reformatory?"

Jim said, "Sure. But I told you, I'll put in a word for him . . . make it as easy as I can."

"I won't give him up," Jeanie said.

Jim stared. "You've got to: It's my job and it's the law."

"For most delinquents I'd give in," Jeanie said steadily. "But not for Cesco. He's not a crook and if he's arrested now he will be one."

"You can talk to the Child Welfare."

"While he's locked up, frightened to death?"

Jim shrugged impatiently. "I got to have him, Jeanie. I'm going to search the place."

"You can't," Jeanie said, "without a warrant. And if you get a warrant and find him here you'll have to take me, too, for helping him escape."

Jim's eyes blazed. "You can't get away with this."

And Jeanie said. "Maybe not but I'm going to have a darned good try."

Blue eyes met grey with equal obstinacy. Jim said, "All right. You've licked me for the time being. But I'll get the kid. I'll have the place watched. And I'll not forgive this in a hurry so don't think it."

JEANIE softened. "Don't be that way, Jim," she begged. "I'm not going to make a habit of this. It's only . . . I know these children so well. All that's against them and all the good that's in them. Good the country needs so badly. But after we're married. . ."

Jim laughed then. "Married?" he said. "I want someone that'll help me; that'll understand. I'd not marry you now. Not if you were the last woman on earth."

And then a miniature cyclone burst out of the cupboard. It was a ragged bundle of nervous energy with Cesco's wan face on top. Before Jim could move, to his everlasting astonishment the boy rammed the famous gun into his hard stomach.

"Oh yes you'll marry her, you big flatfoot," he screamed. "You can send me to reform school but you'll marry Miss Jeanie first. She's good . . . she's . . . I'll talk all over your rotten station house . . . I'll get you fired. . ."

Suddenly the gun wavered. It had been a long day and Cesco was young. He dissolved into tears. Jeanie stood still. She watched Jim.

Very gently he took the automatic away from the boy and then he clapped a big hand on the thin and shaking shoulder so far below his own. "Well, say," he said. "Looka here, kid. This makes things different. See, there's two ways of using a gun." He patted his own holster. "To do wrong and to take care of people the way you just protected Miss Jeanie. You've got the right stuff. Now lookit. The country needs plenty of men like yo're going to be. Tell you," his eyes narrowed thoughtfully as he surveyed the forlorn little figure before him, "let's make a bargain I'll forget about today. I might marry Miss Jeanie," Jeanie turned away to hide her sudden happy laughter, "if you'll do well at school an' work hard to be a swell citizen."

Cesco said. "A cop?"

Jim grinned. "You betcha," he said. There's nothing finer. How about it?"

Cesco stuck out a grimy hand. "It's a go," he said, with a long sigh of relief. "I'll work like hell!"

Jim looked at Jeanie over the top of Cesco's head and her laughter bubbled over.

"Maybe there are two ways of doing the same thing," she suggested. And as Jim nodded contritely she said, "Well, since you admit it, don't you believe Cesco would like it if you kissed me?"

"Oh, yes you'll marry her, you big flatfoot," he screamed.

JEANIE said: "Come to order." But she said it perfunctorily. She knew that there were some who would obey and some who wouldn't. It was that kind of a school, Ward 14, down in the heart of the mill district. The neighborhood was a devil's broth of hideous poverty, with a scum of young criminality rising continually to the surface.

Jeanie liked her job. There was so much more to it than just teaching. She liked to know that the right teacher down there could direct her hard-boiled disillusioned pupils into paths of decency they had never dreamed of before, and she gave hours of her time to the problems of her charges.

Jeanie said again: "Come to order." And this time her sea blue eyes were a touch frosty and her soft voice edged. The better boys were quiet. Tony Captiva laughed raucously and shuffled his feet. She said:

"Tony, I'm making you monitor this week. Collect the pencils for sharpening, please, and water the plants before study period."

This was heresy of Jeanie's own peculiar sort. Monitorships were rewards of virtue and virtue was certainly not in Tony. But Jeanie knew all about Tony's home and she knew also that adolescents have strange and antisocial ways of mending hurts to their self-respect. A monitor was important and according to Jeanie, Tony needed badly to feel important. It worked, as most of her methods did. She had no further trouble with Tony that day.

This makes things different. See, there's two ways of using a gun." He patted his own holster. "To do wrong and to take care of people the way you just protected Miss Jeanie. You've got the right stuff. Now lookit. The country needs plenty of men like yo're going to be. Tell you," his eyes narrowed thoughtfully as he surveyed the forlorn little figure before him, "let's make a bargain I'll forget about today. I might marry Miss Jeanie," Jeanie turned away to hide her sudden happy laughter, "if you'll do well at school an' work hard to be a swell citizen."

Cesco said. "A cop?"

Jim grinned. "You betcha," he said. There's nothing finer. How about it?"

Cesco stuck out a grimy hand. "It's a go," he said, with a long sigh of relief. "I'll work like hell!"

Jim looked at Jeanie over the top of Cesco's head and her laughter bubbled over.

"Maybe there are two ways of doing the same thing," she suggested. And as Jim nodded contritely she said, "Well, since you admit it, don't you believe Cesco would like it if you kissed me?"

Three County Baseball Tilts On Card Today

Coates And Brakovitch Oppose Each On Mound In One Opening Game

OTHER GAMES AT BESSEMER, WAMPUM

First three games of the schedule in the Lawrence County Baseball league will start at 6 p. m. today at Wampum, Bessemer and West Pittsburg and managers of the six teams have selected what they deem to be most likely winning batteries.

Here's the lineup:

Hillsville at Wampum. Batteries for Hillsville, J. Pepe, pitcher and Coulter, catcher; for Wampum, Mundo, pitcher and Hennon, catcher.

Mahoning at Bessemer; batteries for Mahoning, Raney, pitcher and Myron, catcher; for Bessemer, Plevnic, pitcher and Vlah, catcher.

Tin Mill at West Pittsburg; batteries for Tin Mill, Coates, pitcher and Neyman, catcher; for West Pittsburg, Brakovitch, pitcher and Hughes, catcher.

Umpires who have been assigned for the games are as follows: at Wampum, Keller and Hill; at Bessemer, Dunn and Augostine and at West Pittsburg, Price and Bishop.

Alec Black of the Tin Mill selected Coates and Neyman for the opener because this battery was mainly responsible for the Tin Mill landing the pennant last year. Coates, according to Black, is in fine fettle and anxious to start hurling.

Danny De Genova believes that in selecting Brakovitch to pitch for West Pittsburg against Coates he has selected the right flinger. Brakovitch has been loosening up for a week or more and De Genova believes his arm is right.

Pepe and Mundo will stack against each other at Wampum and when Raney steps on the hill for Mahoning the fans will see a newcomer to the circuit, Hughes, who will catch for West Pittsburg was out with a broken finger for a time last year.

The circuit ended up last year with the Tin Mill taking the pennant, Mahoning landing second place and West Pittsburg clutching the third run. Hillsville, Bessemer, Carbon and Wampum finished in order named.

CLAIM TEACHERS AMONG FAYETTE "TAX DODGERS"

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 12.—Fayette county school teachers steadily employed, were reported "missing" by many collectors and classed as tax-dodgers today by Commissioner John Ranklin.

The board of commissioners voted to have a board of five men appointed to examine the records of each collector in the county and report undeserved exonerations.

"The collectors easily find the taxables for election purposes," declared Rankin, "but when collections come due, they are reported 'missing'."

20,000 PEOPLE VIEW SUPPOSED HOLY GRAIL

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—About 20,000 people viewed the famed great Chalice of Antioch, reputed to be the original holy grail while it was on display for a month at Franklin Institute here.

Unearthed in 1910 by Arabs digging in the ruins of Antioch, Syria, the chalice was thought to have been that used by the disciples in the last supper of Christ. It bears portraits of Christ and his 12 followers.

Mel Ott Proves Valuable Hitter

Only Has Average Of .250, But Gets Hit That Wins Game For Giants

PIRATES TRIMMED BY RED SOXERS

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service
Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 12.—Mel Ott, stocky little outfielder of the Giants, is hitting a meager .250, which is exactly 67 points below his lifetime average of ten years in the major leagues.

If an outfielder's worth to his team were measured only by his batting average, the Louisiana larruper would be gracing the Giant's bench.

Instead, he is roaming the outfield and will continue to do so as long as he drives in runs as he did yesterday when he sent no fewer that eight galloping across the pan.

To date Mel has made only 20 hits but those 20 have been good for exactly 15 runs for the Giants. As the man who discovered and developed him—the late John McGraw—use to say: "Give me a lad who will hit only .200 and get his hits in the clutches rather than a mugg who will hit .300 with nobody on base and fail in the pinch."

Giants Top Phils

Mel's latest homer came with two aboard in the ninth to give the Giants a 13-12 verdict over the phils. The Giants used five pitchers in a vain attempt to stop the slugging Phils, four of whom—Whitney, Moore, Norris and Camilli—got five homers, the last named accounting for two.

The Giants are creaking at the hinges and Manager Bill Terry is desperately hunting for reinforcements to prevent a plunge into the second division.

Big George Earnshaw saw another fine effort go to waste when Bucher dropped a fly ball and the Bees beat the Dodgers, 2 to 1. Big George had a slight edge on Tiny Chaplin until Bucher went haywire in the seventh.

Only two games were scheduled in each league yesterday. The Tigers put the skids under Johnny Allen to beat the Indians, 8 to 3, behind the five-hit pitching of Tommy Bridges, Burns' homes was the big punch in a five-run uprising that finished Allen in the fourth.

The Browns dropped their thirteenth straight game as the White Sox walloped them, 19 to 6.

Umpires Assigned To Softball Games

The following umpires have been assigned to work the following softball league games this week:

Wednesday, May 13.

Radiators vs. Knights of S. V. at B. & O.—Frank Biondi and Keith Van Fossan.

Bonnetts at Nobils—Old Castle Field—Bill Ross and Nick Tuscano.

Box Factory at Croton Progressives; Castle Beach—F. Isabella and Harry Strausbaugh.

Friday, May 15

Knights of S. V. vs. Box Factory Spencer Field—Frank Biondi and Johnnie Santangelo.

Bonnetts at Radiators—Harry B. Strausbaugh and Van Fossan.

Nobils at Croton Progresisve, Castle Beach, Bill Ross and Mike DiThomas.

DAMAGE REPORTS

HARRISBURG, May 12. — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has received reports of the killing of native black cherry trees in Chester county by Japanese beetles and of considerable injury to nursery stock from rabbits.

Only the stupid resent the prosperity of their neighbors. The better the cows are fed, the more milk you can take from them.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Back on the track where he first raced to fame and riches three years ago, John Payne Whitney's Singing Wood, winner of the $100,000 futurity in 1933, stepped down the Widener straightway at Belmont park, New York, in front of nine other high class sprinters in the 43rd running of the Toboggan handicap. Fifteen thousand watched the opening of the spring meeting. George Widener's weight-carrying Sation was 3 to 5 choice. At the finish of the six furlongs dash, however, the six-year-old gelded son of Galetian was a length in the rear of the fast going Singing Wood, held at 6 to 1. Hal Headley's Whopper was beat only by a nose for runner-up honors.

Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., Jack Larocque, Ellis Knowles, Theodore Bassett, the latter trio from Rye, N. Y.; Dennis Boardman of South Hamilton, Mass., and John Brown of Philadelphia, will be among the 266 players to compete for the British amateur golf championship at St. Andrews, Scotland, May 25.

With Pete Sarron having lifted the featherweight crown from the globe-trotting Freddie Miller last night at Washington, those who like pugilistics will look forward to the Max Schmeling-Joe Louis scrap in June for the world's heavyweight title after which Barney Ross, welterweight champion, may give Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight conqueror of Jimmy McLarnin, a crack at the crown at New York. If a contract which now exists for a fight between Canzoneri and Lou Ambers prevents a scrap with Ross. Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century club may put either Pedro Montanez or Gustav Eider against Ross. Montanez, a Puerto Rican, has won 14 consecutive fights in the United States. The only scrap the Teuton, Eider, has won here was over Ray Nappolitano. In that setto he was fairly impressive.

Managers of the Lawrence county baseball league should take particular care today to see that the scorers turn in a complete account of the games. A pencil with soft lead should be used. All columns should be totalled correctly. The box score should contain the times at bat, runs, hits, putouts, assists, errors, score by innings and summaries. The scorer should tell how the game was won and lost. All reports must be in The News the day the game is played.

Players who do not have a handicap established, will be required to turn in three eighteen-hole scores for their handicap rating.

Monsey Misses By Four Strokes

"Dike" Monsey Barely Nosed Out Of Chance To Play In National Open

Angelo "Dike" Monsey, pro. at the New Castle Field club, was four strokes off of the necessary 160 that would have meant qualifying for the National Open this year. The qualifying rounds at the Oakmont course yesterday took a heavy toll in favorites.

Monsey had a rather wild first 18 hole card of 86, in the morning, but he settled down in the afternoon and blasted the famous Hulton layout for a not so mean 78 and a total of 164. The last man to qualify was Vash Hromyak of West Middlesex with a 160 total.

C. W. McKee of New Castle the other qualifier had a 93 the first 18 and withdrew. The medalist was the veteran Oakmont pro Emil Loeffler. Runner-up was Barrett Melvin the 18-year old Franklin, Pa., High School boy.

Freddie Miller Loses Decision

Petie Sarron Wins Verdict Over Champion In Washington, D. C. Ring

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Ex-featherweight champion Freddie Miller today will readily attest that Griffith stadium's "hex" on southpaws is still working.

Under the ring in which Miller lost his title to Petie Sarron last night was the pitching box from which "Lefty" Grove, Boston Red Sox mound ace, was shelled on Sunday and saw his unbeaten record marred.

In the same ring a year ago Frankie Klick, perennial challenger to Tony Canzoneri for the lightweight crown, made his last stand against Canzy and, in the opinion of all present save the judges, was victorious.

Last night 23,000 fans paid approximately $45,000, thereby stamping the capital as a big-time fight town, to see the left-handed Miller elude the jinx and make a first class job of shellacking the bouncing Sarron—for eight rounds. Then the Birmingham buzz-saw and the "hex" caught up with Freddie, and saw the courageous little champ, defending his title for the 20th time, wobbling glassy-eyed around the ring at the final bell.

The referee and one judge voted "Sarron", with the other arbiter voting "draw".

Three County Baseball Tilts On Card Today

Coates And Brakovitch Oppose Each On Mound In One Opening Game

OTHER GAMES AT BESSEMER, WAMPUM

First three games of the schedule in the Lawrence County Baseball league will start at 6 p. m. today at Wampum, Bessemer and West Pittsburg and managers of the six teams have selected what they deem to be most likely winning batteries.

Here's the lineup:

Hillsville at Wampum. Batteries for Hillsville, J. Pepe, pitcher and Coulter, catcher; for Wampum, Mundo, pitcher and Hennon, catcher.

Mahoning at Bessemer: batteries for Mahoning, Raney, pitcher and Myron, catcher; for Bessemer, Plevnic, pitcher and Vlah, catcher.

Tin Mill at West Pittsburg; batteries for Tin Mill, Coates, pitcher and Neyman, catcher; for West Pittsburg, Brakovitch, pitcher and Hughes, catcher.

Umpires who have been assigned for the games are as follows: at Wampum, Keller and Hill; at Bessemer, Dunn and Augostine and at West Pittsburg, Price and Bishop.

Alec Black of the Tin Mill selected Coates and Neyman for the opener because this battery was mainly responsible for the Tin Mill landing the pennant last year. Coates, according to Black, is in fine fettle and anxious to start hurling.

Danny De Genova believes that in selecting Brakovitch to pitch for West Pittsburg against Coates he has selected the right flinger. Brakovitch has been loosening up for a week or more and De Genova believes his arm is right.

Pepe and Mundo will stack against each other at Wampum and when Raney steps on the hill for Mahoning the fans will see a newcomer to the circuit, Hughes, who will catch for West Pittsburg was out with a broken finger for a time last year.

The circuit ended up last year with the Tin Mill taking the pennant, Mahoning landing second place and West Pittsburg clutching the third run. Hillsville, Bessemer, Carbon and Wampum finished in order named.

Mel Ott Proves Valuable Hitter

Only Has Average Of .250, But Gets Hit That Wins Game For Giants

PIRATES TRIMMED BY RED SOXERS

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service
Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 12.—Mel Ott, stocky little outfielder of the Giants, is hitting a meager .250, which is exactly 67 points below his lifetime average of ten years in the major leagues.

If an outfielder's worth to his team were measured only by his batting average, the Louisiana larruper would be gracing the Giant's bench.

Instead, he is roaming the outfield and will continue to do so as long as he drives in runs as he did yesterday when he sent no fewer that eight galloping across the pan.

To date Mel has made only 20 hits but those 20 have been good for exactly 15 runs for the Giants. As the man who discovered and developed him—the late John McGraw—use to say: "Give me a lad who will hit only .200 and get his hits in the clutches rather than a mugg who will hit .300 with nobody on base and fail in the pinch."

Giants Top Phils

Mel's latest homer came with two aboard in the ninth to give the Giants a 13-12 verdict over the Phils. The Giants used five pitchers in a vain attempt to stop the slugging Phils, four of whom—Whitney, Moore, Norris and Camilli—got five homers, the last named accounting for two.

The Giants are creaking at the hinges and Manager Bill Terry is desperately hunting for reinforcements to prevent a plunge into the second division.

Big George Earnshaw saw another fine effort go to waste when Bucher dropped a fly ball and the Bees beat the Dodgers, 2 to 1. Big George had a slight edge on Tiny Chaplin until Bucher went haywire in the seventh.

Only two games were scheduled in each league yesterday. The Tigers put the skids under Johnny Allen to beat the Indians, 8 to 3, behind the five-hit pitching of Tommy Bridges. Burns' homes was the big punch in a five-run uprising that finished Allen in the fourth.

The Browns dropped their thirteenth straight game as the White Sox walloped them, 19 to 6.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Back on the track where he first raced to fame and riches three years ago, John Payne Whitney's Singing Wood, winner of the $100,000 futurity in 1933, stepped down the Widener straightway at Belmont park, New York, in front of nine other high class sprinters in the 43rd running of the Toboggan handicap. Fifteen thousand watched the opening of the spring meeting. George Widener's weight-carrying Sation was 3 to 5 choice. At the finish of the six furlongs dash, however, the six-year-old gelded son of Galetian was a length in the rear of the fast going Singing Wood, held at 6 to 1. Hal Headley's Whopper was beat only by a nose for runner-up honors.

Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn.; Jack Larocque, Ellis Knowles, Theodore Bassett, the latter trio from Rye, N. Y.; Dennis Boardman of South Hamilton, Mass., and John Brown of Philadelphia, will be among the 266 players to compete for the British amateur golf championship at St. Andrews, Scotland, May 25.

With Pete Sarron having lifted the featherweight crown from the globe-trotting Freddie Miller last night at Washington, those who like pugilistics will look forward to the Max Schmeling-Joe Louis scrap in June for the world's heavyweight title after which Barney Ross, welterweight champion, may give Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight conqueror of Jimmy McLarnin, a crack at the crown at New York. If a contract which now exists for a fight between Canzoneri and Lou Ambers prevents a scrap with Ross, Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Centry club may put either Pedro Montanez or Gustav Elder against Ross. Montanez, a Puerto Rican, has won 14 consecutive fights in the United States. The only scrap the Teuton, Elder, has won here was over Ray Nappolitano. In that scrap he was fairly impressive.

Managers of the Lawrence county baseball league should take particular care today to see that the scorers turn in a complete account of the games. A pencil with soft lead should be used. All columns should be totalled correctly. The box score should contain the times at bat, runs, hits, putouts, assists, errors, score by innings and summaries. The scorer should tell how the game was won and lost. All reports must be in The News the day the game is played.

Entries Are Now Being Received For Annual Course Tournament By Manager Smith

Manager and Pro V. Arthur Smith, of the Sylvan Heights course, announced today that entries are now being received for the spring handicap tournament at the course.

Players who do not have a handicap established, will be required to turn in three eighteen-hole scores for their handicap rating.

It is expected that a large field will enter the event, play in which will be started within the next few weeks. The prizes which will be offered the winner will be well worth striving for, Capt. Smith states.

Monsey Misses By Four Strokes

"Dike" Monsey Barely Nosed Out Of Chance To Play In National Open

Angelo "Dike" Monsey, pro. at the New Castle Field club, was four strokes off of the necessary 160 that would have meant qualifying for the National Open this year. The qualifying rounds at the Oakmont course yesterday took a heavy toll in favorites.

Monsey had a rather wild first 18 hole card of 86, in the morning, but he settled down in the afternoon and blasted the famous Hulton layout for a not so mean 78 and a total of 164. The last man to qualify was Vash Hromyak of West Middlesex with a 160 total.

C. W. McKee of New Castle the other qualifier had a 93 the first 18 and withdrew. The medalist was the veteran Oakmont pro Emil Loeffler. Runner-up was Barrett Melvin the 18-year old Franklin, Pa., High School boy.

Freddie Miller Loses Decision

Petie Sarron Wins Verdict Over Champion In Washington, D. C. Ring

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Ex-featherweight champion Freddie Miller today will readily attest that Griffith stadium's "hex" on southpaws is still working.

Under the ring in which Miller lost his title to Petie Sarron last night was the pitching box from which "Lefty" Grove, Boston Red Sox mound ace, was shelled on Sunday and saw his unbeaten record marred.

In the same ring a year ago Frankie Klick, perennial challenger to Tony Canzoneri for the lightweight crown, made his last stand against Canzy and, in the opinion of all present save the judges, was victorious.

Last night 23,000 fans paid approximately $45,000, thereby stamping the capital as a big-time fight town, to see the left-handed Miller elude the jinx and make a first class job of shellacking the bouncing Sarron—for eight rounds. Then the Birmingham buzz-saw and the "hex" caught up with Freddie, and saw the courageous little champ, defending his title for the 20th time, wobbling glassy-eyed around the ring at the final bell.

The referee and one judge voted "Sarron", with the other arbiter voting "draw".

Three County Baseball Tilts On Card Today

Coates And Brakovitch Oppose Each On Mound In One Opening Game

OTHER GAMES AT BESSEMER, WAMPUM

First three games of the schedule in the Lawrence County Baseball league will start at 6 p. m. today at Wampum, Bessemer and West Pittsburg and managers of the six teams have selected what they deem to be most likely winning batteries.

Here's the lineup:

Hillsville at Wampum. Batteries for Hillsville, J. Pepe, pitcher and Coulter, catcher; for Wampum, Mundo, pitcher and Hennon, catcher.

Mahoning at Bessemer; batteries for Mahoning, Raney, pitcher and Myron, catcher; for Bessemer, Plevnic, pitcher and Vlah, catcher.

Tin Mill at West Pittsburg; batteries for Tin Mill, Coates, pitcher and Neyman, catcher; for West Pittsburg, Brakovitch, pitcher and Hughes, catcher.

Umpires who have been assigned for the games are as follows: at Wampum, Keller and Hill; at Bessemer, Dunn and Augostine and at West Pittsburg, Price and Bishop.

Alec Black of the Tin Mill selected Coates and Neyman for the opener because this battery was mainly responsible for the Tin Mill landing the pennant last year. Coates, according to Black, is in fine fettle and anxious to start hurling.

Danny De Genova believes that in selecting Brakovitch to pitch for West Pittsburg against Coates he has selected the right flinger. Brakovitch has been loosening up for a week or more and De Genova believes his arm is right.

Pepe and Mundo will stack against each other at Wampum and when Raney steps on the hill for Mahoning the fans will see a newcomer to the circuit. Hughes, who will catch for West Ptitsburg was out with a broken finger for a time last year.

The circuit ended up last year with the Tin Mill taking the pennant, Mahoning landing second place and West Pittsburg clutching the third run. Hillsville, Bessemer, Carbon and Wampum finished in order named.

Croton, Bonnetts, Box Factory, Are League Winners

City Softball League Gets Under Way With Three Fast Games Played

New Castle city softball league shoved off from shore last night on the 1936 season and three fast games resulted, with Croton Progressives turning in the big upset of the night by handing the Radiators, last year's champs, a 7 to 6 defeat. The Bonnetts defeated the Knights of St. Vitus 12 to 5, and the Box Factory whitewashed the Nobils 7 to 0.

It was a wild and wooly game at the Radiator field with the Croton team under "Lundy" Aven blasting away at Joe Isabella for three runs in the first of the ninth to take the verdict by a lone run. Irv Rubeis had the mound assignment for the Croton Progressives and held his usual "jinx" over the Rads. Rubeis was hard to hit in the pinches. He fanned eight men.

J. Isabella on the knoll for the Rads held the Crotons to seven hits and fanned nine men. The hitting of Deep and Nocera featured for the Croton team, wtih Jerry Pia driving in the winning run in the first of the ninth. Sumners and Joe Mazzeri led the Rads at bat. Bill Ross and Harry B. Strausbaugh handled a good game as umpires.

Score by innings: R. H. E.

The Bonnetts will now meet the Nobils at Old Castle field Wednesday night for the second game of the year.

Tommy Maille and Rod Pezzone did the flinging for the losers and were found for 11 hits. Santangelo and Frank Isabella umpired a fine game.

The Boxers got to "Pip" Bonfield for six hits and made them good for seven runs. The leading hitters in the game were Vinnie Gallagher, Testa and Bartlett.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Back on the track where he first raced to fame and riches three years ago, John Payne Whitney's Singing Wood, winner of the $100,000 futurity in 1933, stepped down the Widener straightway at Belmont park, New York, in front of nine other high class sprinters in the 43rd running of the Teboggan handicap. Fifteen thousand watched the opening of the spring meeting. George Widener's weight-carrying Sation was 3 to 5 choice. At the finish of the six furlongs dash, however, the six-year-old gelded son of Galetian was a length in the rear of the fast going Singing Wood, held at 6 to 1. Hal Headley's Whopper was beat only by a nose for runner-up honors.

Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn.; Jack Larocque, Ellis Knowles, Theodore Bassett, the latter trio from Rye, N. Y.; Dennis Boardman of South Hamilton, Mass., and John Brown of Philadelphia, will be among the 266 players to compete for the British amateur golf championship at St. Andrews, Scotland, May 25.

With Pete Sarron having lifted the featherweight crown from the globe-trotting Freddie Miller last night at Washington, those who like pugilistics will look forward to the Max Schmeling-Joe Louis scrap in June for the world's heavyweight title after which Barney Ross, welterweight champion, may give Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight conqueror of Jimmy McLarnin, a crack at the crown at New York. If a contract which now exists for a fight between Canzoneri and Lou Ambers prevents a scrap with Ross, Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Centry club may put either Pedro Montanez or Gustav Elder against Ross. Montanez, a Puerto Rican, has won 14 consecutive fights in the United States. The only scrap the Teuton, Elder, has won here was over Ray Nappolitano. In that setto he was fairly impressive.

Managers of the Lawrence county baseball league should take particular care today to see that the scorers turn in a complete account of the games. A pencil with soft lead should be used. All columns should be totalled correctly. The box score should contain the times at bat, runs, hits, putouts, assists, errors, score by innings and summaries. The scorer should tell how the game was won and lost. All reports must be in The News the day the game is played.

Monsey Misses By Four Strokes

"Dike" Monsey Barely Nosed Out Of Chance To Play In National Open

Angelo "Dike" Monsey, pro, at the New Castle Field club, was four strokes off of the necessary 160 that would have meant qualifying for the National Open this year. The qualifying rounds at the Oakmont course yesterday took a heavy toll in favorites.

Monsey had a rather wild first 18 hole card of 86, in the morning, but he settled down in the afternoon and blasted the famous Hulton layout for a not so mean 78 and a total of 164. The last man to qualify was Vash Hromyak of West Middlesex with a 160 total.

C. W. McKee of New Castle the other qualifer had a 93 the first 18 and withdrew. The medalist was the veteran Oakmont pro Emil Loeffler. Runner-up was Barrett Melvin the 18-year old Franklin, Pa., High School boy.

Freddie Miller Loses Decision

Petie Sarron Wins Verdict Over Champion In Washington, D. C. Ring

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Ex-featherweight champion Freddie Miller today will readily attest that Griffith stadium's "hex" on southpaws is still working.

Under the ring in which Miller lost his title to Petie Sarron last night was the pitching box from which "Lefty" Grove, Boston Red Sox mound ace, was shelled on Sunday and saw his unbeaten record marred.

In the same ring a year ago Frankie Klick, perennial challenger to Tony Canzoneri for the lightweight crown, made his last stand against Canzy and, in the opinion of all present save the judges, was victorious.

Last night 23,000 fans paid approximately $45,000, thereby stamping the capital as a big-time fight town, to see the left-handed Miller elude the jinx and make a first class job of shellacking the bouncing Sarron—for eight rounds. Then the Birmingham buzz-saw and the "hex" caught up with Freddie, and saw the courageous little champ, defending his title for the 20th time, wobbling glassy-eyed around the ring at the final bell.

The referee and one judge voted "Sarron", with the other arbiter voting "draw".

By LESLIE GOULD

NEW YORK, May 12.—The stock market moved upward on a fairly wide front today.

Led by steels, motors, rails and a few specialities, with gains running as much as 3 points in dull trading.

N. Y. Central, Northern Pacific and Southern Pacific ran up about a point each while Bethlehem and U. S. Steel gained more than a point each.

American Can soared nearly 3 points and Continental Can jumped about 2. Allied Chemical also was a strong blue clip with a runup of more than 2 points.

Farm equipments were led upward by J. I. Case, which spurted 2½ points at one time. Deere climbed a point and International Harvester converted a fractional loss into an equal gain.

General Motors and Chrysler were active in the motor group, the latter advancing more than a point.

Standard Oil of N. J., Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Pullman, Celanese, Douglas Aircraft and DuPont were others to show gains of a point or more.

Bands continued mixed and quiet. Grains and cotton worked toward higher levels.
